Doctor Green gave the students in Great Eight a class. After finishing it, Doctor Green gave time to the students to ask questions and answers about healthy eating.

David: It is said that we shouldn't eat between meals. Is that right?

Doctor Green: Eating four to five meals can help you control appetites（食欲）according to lots of studies. So we can eat between meals.

Paul: my classmates Lily always keeps having breakfast. Is it true that breakfast is necessary?

Doctor Green: Of course it is. Studies show that eating breakfast can make you energetic and help you keep eyes on what you do, and keeps good mind.

Adam: It is better to get thin when we skip meals, isn't it?

Doctor Green: In fact, skipping meal can't make you thin. Studies find that if you skip meals during the day, you will be heavier than people eating the right food four or five times a day. When you skip a meal, you may be slowing down your body's metabolism（新陈代谢）and making your body need fewer calories（卡路里）and turn the rest calories into fat.

23. What does the underlined word "skip" mean in Chinese?

A. 省去　　B. 增加　　C. 丰富　　D. 制作

In Huston Middle School in Pennsylvania, US, its music class is very different from yours. The class is in a traditional classroom. But it is a multimedia（多媒体的）music class with many high-tech machines or tools.

In the multimedia class, students first learn how to use these tools. Later, they learn to record and compose（作曲）music, make videos, edit photos and use online media. All students must use their skills to make a recording and post it online as their final project.

Music teacher Brian Querry started the multimedia music class this past school year. “I know something about technology（科技）, and I also know music,” Querry said. “I asked myself: Why not put them together? I thought it would make the class more interesting, and students would learn more from it.”

It turns out that Querry was right. The class was well-received. Students in the class all like it very much. Catelynn Seinera, 14, said that she enjoys using all the different kinds of high-tech tools. “It’s great to have such a class in our school,” Seinera said. “Knowing how to make videos is also very useful to me in other classes.”

27. The music class in this school is special because _____.

A. it is in a traditional classroom

B. there is no music teacher

C. students can use many high-tech tools
