Animals need sunlight, too. Just like us, their food comes from a food chain which begins with the sun and the plants.

sun → leaf → caterpillar (毛虫) → bird

Sunlight means we can see during the day. If there was no sun, it would be dark all the time. Even when the sky is cloudy, the sunlight is strong and it shines through the clouds.

Maybe there are many differences going to school in Britain and going to school in your country. In Britain school starts between 8:30 and 9:00 and finishes at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It is a long day but there are no lessons on Saturdays. Children usually have lunch at school.

School meals are not very expensive and quite good. But some children don't like them and take sandwiches or go home.

British school holidays are different from those in other countries. They are shorter at Christmas and Easter but much longer in the summer. The school year starts in the first week in September and ends in the third or fourth week of July.

Children start primary school when they are five years old. They stay there until they are eleven. Then they usually go to a secondary school. Children cannot leave school before they are sixteen. At this age most students take public exams. Students who continue their studies go into the sixth form. If their school doesn't have a sixth form, they change schools or go to a college. Students need two years in the sixth form, and then take more public exams. In some parts of Britain, students go to middle schools at the age of eight and then go to secondary schools when they are twelve or thirteen.

★ Our school starts at about eight so British school starts 71 than ours.

★ British school 72 at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

★ Students don't have any lessons on 73.

★ Some children don't like school meals and take 74 for lunch.

★ In Britain summer holidays are 75 than the holidays at Christmas and Easter.

★ The British school year 76 about 11 months.

★ British School Education:
