In Britain, where 50 % of the population now own mobile phones, about eight million users are of school age. This number is growing not only among teenagers, but among children under 13.

At school there can be problems with ringing phones and students sending text messages in class. Most schools have a rule that students must turn off their phones in class time—they can only use them at break, at lunch time or after school. If a student's phone rings during class, the teacher can take it away. Other schools ban mobiles completely. They say this stops students wasting time in class. They also say it helps to stop people who want to steal mobiles and wait for students on their way home.

Most students think they should be able to bring their phones to school. Clare says, "There's no reason to ban mobiles at school. They are very useful. And I feel safe if I've got a phone in my bag. If there's any trouble, I can always get in touch with my parents."

By the year 2100, we will live on Mars(火星). Here is what life will be like.

First of all, it will be easier for us to go out. Now our spaceships are too slow to take larger numbers of people to Mars. However, by 2100, it will take us two or three days to get to Mars by spaceship!

Secondly, people need food, water and air to live. Scientists should be able to grow some plants on Mars. These plants will give the food and air that we need. However, can these plants make water for us? There is no answer now.

There is a problem for us to live on Mars. Mars pulls us much less than the earth does. This will be dangerous because we could easily jump too high and fly slowly away into space. To stop this, people on Mars have to wear special shoes to make themselves heavier.

Many people believe that life on Mars will be better than that on earth because there is more space. And robots will do most of our work, so we can have more time for our hobbies. There will probably be no schools on Mars. Every student will have a computer at home. They can study, do their homework and take exams in online schools. Each student will also have his/her own online teacher called "e-teacher". I believe they will study better in this way.

71. We may live _____ by the year 2100 according to the passage.

- A. on Mars B. on the moon C. in the space station

72. How long will it take us to travel from the earth to Mars by spaceship by the year 2100? _____.

- A. A few hours B. A few months C. A few days

73. The life on Mars will be better than that on earth because _____.

- A. there will be more space and less work to do
B. there will be much more delicious food
C. all the students won't do any homework

74. Which of the following about Mars is TRUE? _____.

- A. People will get healthier when they live on Mars
B. It will be much better and faster for us to go out
C. Scientists should be able to grow plants to give us food and air

75. The third paragraph of the passage is about _____.

- A. how we will get to Mars in the future
B. how we can find more water on Mars
C. what we'll need to live on Mars

They can't go home until very late. After dinner, they have to do their homework. Some children usually spend more than two hours in front of computers doing their homework.

Some teachers think children should have more free time, so they can do something they like. "Learning is not just in classroom. If children are interested in something, they can learn a lot from it," a parent says, "so free time is also important to children."
