Everyone needs friends. We all like to 1 close to someone. It is nice to have a friend to talk, laugh, and to do things with. 2, sometimes we need to be alone. We don't always want people 3. But we would feel lonely if we never had a friend.

No two people are just the same. Friends 4 don't get on well. It doesn't mean that they no longer 5 each other. Most of the time they will make up (重归于好) and become friends again.

Sometimes friends move away. Then we feel very 6. We miss them very much, but we can 7 them and write to them. And we can know new friends. It is surprising to find out 8 we like new people when we get to know them.

There is more good 9 for people who have friends. They live longer than people who don't. Why? It must be that they are happier. Being happy 10 you stay well. Or it could just know that someone cares. If someone cares about you, you take better care of yourself.

Dear Mum and Dad,

It's after lunch. I'm writing to you from my camp.

Yesterday we left the school at 8:00 am. The camp is only 200 miles from our home, and the school bus carried us here at noon.

I share(分享) a room with three boys. Two of them know how to use computers. They are in Mr. Buck's class. I am learning how to use computers, so I am in Mrs. Donaldson's class.

I have to design(设计) my own program this week. All of the campers have to. I want to design a game. Then I can teach it to you.

We must join in two other activities each day. I am going to choose swimming and tennis. In my free time, I am going to play games on the computers. So are most of the campers.

I like camping, but I don't like the food. It's very bad. We have our breakfast, lunch and supper in a very big room. When we are eating, everyone is talking a lot and there's a lot of noise!

I have to say "good-bye" now. See you in two weeks.

Love,
Chris

In future a machine will do more work for man. Few people have to work long hours. Man will have more free time. How will he use his free time in the world of tomorrow? Certainly he will still need holidays. We often hear people say, "Oh, I'd like to have a holiday in a place where there's a lot of sun and sand and sea." Or perhaps, "I'd like a holiday in a place where I can go hiking and enjoy myself in the snow."

In future the computer will help them to find the right place. The computer will answer their questions. It'll also show them pictures and they will tell them where to find the right place for a holiday they want.

In future people will almost certainly have to do less work. Machines will take more and more of the work from man. Each person will get only two or three days of work a week. This means that the rest of the time will be free time.

In today's world, children are taught for work. Most of the things they learn at school are used to help them in their future work. In future, children will probably have to learn how to spend their free time. They may have to be taught for a life without much work.

If you have a brother or sister, you already know you are different from each other. You live together in the same house and with the same parents, but you have different personalities. Why is this? One possible reason is the way your parents treat you.

First-born children receive all the attention (注意力) from their parents. Most families have twice as many photos of a first-born as any other child. Parents usually give first-borns more responsible (责任) and depend on them to take care of younger brothers and sisters. As a result, first-born are often responsible, hard-working and serious. They often want to do well at school and work. There are more first-born American presidents than second or last-born children—for example, George W. Bush, George Washington, and Lyndon Baines Johnson.

When a second child arrives, the second child has to compete (竞争) with the first-born for the parents' attention and love. These children often choose different sports and hobbies to do well at school and work, but have to be creative to get their family's attention. They are often friendly and cool.
