阅读下列短文，从 26~45 各题所给的 A、B、C 和 D 项中，选出最佳选项，并在答题卷上将该项涂黑。

A

Jessica looked anxiously at the notice on the pet shop window. Printed in big, white letters were the words:

CLOSING DOWN SALE
HUGE PRICE CUTS
EVERYTHING MUST GO

From the look of the windows, everything had already gone. There was no sign of the cute little dogs or the colorful fish that had been there a week before.

Jessica pushed open the door and hurriedly made her way past the empty boxes. At the back of the shop, a large red and blue parrot (鹦鹉) was standing on its perch(栖木). As soon as it saw Jessica, it gave a loud sound and flew over to sit on her shoulder.

“Oh, Zebedee,” she cried, “Thank goodness, you’re still here! I thought you’d been sold.”

“Polly put the kettle on,” the bird replied immediately.

Mr. Menagerie, the pet shop owner, appeared from the back office. He greeted Jessica with a cheerful smile. “I was hoping you’d call in.”

“I haven’t missed a Saturday yet. But what’s going on? Why are you selling everything?” asked Jessica.

“I’m going to Africa,” Mr. Menagerie said, “My brother, Tom, the famous explorer(探险家), has asked me to join him on his new journey.”

“Africa! You are lucky,” said Jessica. “I’ve always wanted to have adventures. Nothing exciting ever happens to me.”

“Well, here is something exciting! I can’t take my old friend Zebedee and I think you might like to have him.

“Oh! I’d love to... but, I can’t. I don’t have any money.”

“I didn’t mean ‘buy him’,” laughed Mr. Menagerie, “I meant ‘have him’, as a gift. You visit him so often and it is you who taught him to talk. Anyway, I’ll be glad to know he’s going to a good home.”

“I promise I’ll look after him carefully. Thank you so much, Mr. Menagerie. Enjoy Africa!”

Jessica jumped all the way down the street, across the road and into the Botanical Gardens. Zebedee flew by her side, crying out, “Polly put the kettle on” every now and then.

At 19 years old, John Kraus is a professional photographer. He has been taking photos of rocket launches(火箭发射) for different magazines since 2016, as well as selling them to different buyers. He's even traveled to California just to take photos of two different rocket launches.

He started his journey in early 2015. At that time he was a 15-year-old boy living in Satellite Beach, Florida, near the Kennedy Space Center. He had used his birthday and Christmas cash to buy a DSLR camera and began practising by shooting rocket launches. Living on Florida's Space Coast gave him many chances to practise.

However, he wasn't sure his hobby was going to be his life's work. "When I first started in early 2015, photographing rockets was just like 'Oh, look, there's a launch tomorrow night. I guess I'll take photos!'" Kraus wrote.

But online attention and increasing photo sales led him to take a look deeper at his hobby. Could he really turn his hobby into his career? After graduating high school, he decided to work as a full-time photographer.

Kraus spoke about some of the challenges of deciding what kind of job he wanted to do. "Parents, teachers and all of those around us often say we should know as soon as possible what we want to do with our life," he said. "It's okay to not know what you want to do! But it's important to try new things. Never pass down a chance to try or experience something new. You'll never know when you find the aim of your life; it could be right in front of you."

31. When did Kraus become a professional photographer?
- A. When he was 15 years old.
 - B. After he finished high school.
 - C. Before he went to Florida.
 - D. When he first shot rockets.
32. Which of the following is the main reason why Kraus works as a photographer?
- A. His home near the space center.
 - B. Encouragement from people around.
 - C. His ability to save money for buying camera.
 - D. Online attention to his photos and photo sales.
33. When he was facing the challenges in choosing jobs, Kraus _____.
- A. was sure what he really wanted
 - B. gave up the chances to find his dream job
 - C. was brave enough to try everything new to him
 - D. talked about his dream with parents and teachers
34. The underlined phrase “pass down” is closest in meaning to “_____”.
- A. compare B. refuse C. catch D. notice
35. What is the main idea of the passage?
- A. Kraus grew up in Satellite Beach, Florida.
 - B. Kraus had a change of jobs because of his interests.
 - C. Kraus was encouraged by his teachers to take photos.
 - D. Kraus has turned his hobby into a successful career.

C

The coast redwood is the unchallenged tallest of North American's trees. But do you know it grows from a seed (种子) that is smaller than a pea?

What's special about redwoods?

Redwoods are special for a couple of reasons. The first is their size. Imagine standing next to a tree which is the height of a 30-floor building. The second is their age. Redwoods usually grows to about 600 years old. Some are even more than 2000 years old.

Where do redwoods grow?

To find a coast redwood, you'll have to go to Oregon or California. The land along the west coast, about 450 miles long and up to 35 miles wide, is home to the redwoods. Coast redwoods do not grow anywhere else in the world.

Why do redwoods grow there?

The coast of the Pacific Ocean provides a special environment for the redwoods. Cool, wet air comes from the ocean and keeps the trees wet all year. That is important because most of the rain falls between October and May. During the dry summer months, the trees depend on the wet air over the coast.

How do redwoods survive?

Redwoods have a couple of protection systems(系统). The skin of an adult redwood tree can grow to as thick as 12 inches. The thick covering protects the lower part of the tree from fire damage. Also, most of a redwood's branches and leaves are high up on the tree. This keeps them safe from forest fires. Redwoods are safe from insect damage because the wood has a bitter-tasting chemical.

What should I do?

If you ever get a chance, visit a redwood forest. Look among the tree trunks and imagine who might have camped there a thousand years ago. Look upward and just imagine how high the trees might grow if we protect them.

36. To see a redwood tree, you should go to _____.

- A. the west coast of North America
- B. the coast of the Atlantic Ocean
- C. South American coast
- D. anywhere in the world

37. What is important for redwoods to grow in dry seasons?

- A. Rain fall.
- B. Sea water.
- C. Wet air.
- D. Ocean life.

38. Redwoods are safe from forest fires because of _____.

- A. their taste
- B. their chemical
- C. their systems
- D. their colors

39. If you want to know how big coast redwoods are, under which question should you look?

A. What's special about redwoods?

B. Where do redwoods grow?

C. Why do redwoods grow there?

D. How do redwoods survive?

40. What is the author's main purpose for writing this passage?

A. To praise.

B. To suggest.

C. To introduce.

D. To question.

Here is the Wall Paper stuck on the back wall of the classroom. It is a place for the students to introduce their favorite books to the class. This week it's Ann's Group's turn to post their book introductions.

	What's Your Favorite Book
 Tim	I like the book The Wandering Earth . It first attracted my attention when I saw the movie based on the book during the spring festival. It is a science fiction about driving the earth away from the solar system. I really enjoy seeing what the world will be like when it comes to the end. I think it's one of the most creative science fictions written by a Chinese writer.
 Ann	The Innocents Abroad is a travel book by the American author Mark Twain published in 1869. It describes a journey of a group of American travelers in 1867. It was the best-selling of Twain's works during his lifetime, as well as one of the best-selling travel books of all time.
 Sara	My favorite book is Linnea in Monet's Garden . It's a story about a little girl visiting Monet's art in museums. She also visits the artist's home and gardens. What I like most is that the full-color photos of Monet's famous paintings.
 Ben	Grand Canyon (峡谷) is an introduction to the natural history of the canyon. If you like geography, I'm sure you'll like it. You can find lots of amazing photos in the book. It's perfect for young travelers, campers, and observers of the natural world, especially for those planning a trip to the Southwest.

41. The Wall Paper allows the students to _____.
A. share the books they like
B. learn about different students
C. introduce their favorite movies
D. show their reading experience
42. If one likes travelling, which two of the books can be chosen?
A. The Wandering Earth and Grand Canyon.
B. The Wandering Earth and Linnea in Monet's Garden.
C. The Innocents Abroad and Grand Canyon.
D. The Innocents Abroad and Linnea in Monet's Garden.
43. What do we know about the book The Wandering Earth from Tim?
A. It was published during the spring festival.
B. It describes the solar system.
C. It is a book about making a movie.
D. It is written by a Chinese writer.
44. Which student is a fan of art?
A. Ben B. Tim C. Ann D. Sara

第二节 阅读填空（共 5 小题；每小题 1 分，满分 5 分）

阅读短文及选项 A~E，选出可以填入空白处的最佳选项，并在答题卷上将该项涂黑。

What topic do more than 13 million American kids like? Soccer! The Soccer Industry Council of America reported in 1999 that all those kids were playing organized soccer. Add adults into the number, and you come up with more than 18 million Americans playing soccer. ____46____

First, I think there's the international interest. ____47____ The excitement must be catching.

Another reason is that soccer takes less equipment(设备) than some other sports. So it's not very costly for a kid to join a soccer team.

____48____ Though accidents may happen, body touching usually isn't part of the game. Therefore, fewer injuries are caused.

Soccer attracts both boys and girls. Though soccer was at first only a male sport (just like all other sports), soccer has caught on with girls. 49 Interest in the sport extends to whole families, so there are more players, more fans, more coaches, and so on.

Finally, I think there is the running factor. 50 Kids love it, and few parents can say no to it.

- A. This is good for the sport.
- B. What makes soccer so popular?
- C. Moreover, parents consider soccer as a safer sport than some other sports.
- D. Running up and down a field chasing a ball is such a healthy thing to do.
