One possible version A:

My favourite English saying

My favourite English saying is many hands make light work. It means if lots of people share the work, it will make a job easier to complete.

Last term, our class decided to give a charity show to help children in poor areas. It was difficult to get everything ready in a short time. Luckily, all my classmates worked together and shared the work. Some students handed out leaflets, others prepared the costumes, and others helped download the music. I'm good at singing, so I sang a song while my best friend played the guitar.

The charity show turned out to be a great success. We all realized that the success belonged to every one of us. Teamwork really works!

One possible version B:

My favourite English saying

My favourite English saying is practice makes perfect. It means if you keep practising, you will be better at it.

When I was very young, I wasn't interested in drawing. Paintings and drawings looked all the same to me. My mum was patient and she asked me to draw whatever I liked. At first it was difficult. When I finished drawing a tiger, it looked like a cat! I didn't give up though. I practised every day. Once I kept drawing an egg for a week! Day by day I made steady progress. Then one day my art teacher praised me. How proud I was! I practised even harder than before. I want to be a famous artist like Qi Baishi in the future.

When my friends say that I am a born artist, I will smile and say, "It is practice that really works!"
