Mrs. Anne was a housewife. One morning, after her husband had gone to work, Mrs. Anne sent her children to school and went upstairs to her bedroom. Mrs. Anne was so excited that she didn't want to do any housework, because in the evening she would go to a costume party with her husband. She planned to put on a ghost costume. She had made her costume the night before, so she couldn't wait to try it on. The dress was made of a sheet, but it was very realistic(逼真的). After putting it on, Mrs. Anne went downstairs. She wanted to find out whether it would be comfortable to wear.

When Mrs. Anne was entering the dinning—room, there was a knock on the door. She knew that it must be the baker. She had told the baker to come straight in if she failed to open the door and to leave the bread on the kitchen table. In order not to frighten the poor man, Mrs. Anne quickly hid in the small store—room under the stairs. She heard the door open. Suddenly the man opened the door of the store—room and entered. Mrs. Anne realized that it was the electricity(电力) worker reading the number. She tried to explain the situation, saying "It's only me", but it was too late. . .

- ( ) 44. Mrs. Anne would dress up as a _____ in the evening party.
A. police officer    B. ghost    C. housewife    D. student
- ( ) 45. If Mrs. Anne didn't answer the door, the baker had been told to _____.

C. read the electricity number
D. go in and leave the bread on the kitchen table
- ( ) 46. _____ knocked at the door and came into Mrs. Anne's home.
A. Her husband    B. Her children
C. The electricity worker    D. The baker
- ( ) 47. Which of the following endings may be the best for the story?
A. The electricity worker cried out and ran away closing the door hard behind him.
B. The electricity worker realized it was Mrs. Anne and laughed out.
C. Mrs. Anne said sorry to the electricity worker and he forgave (原谅) her.
D. The electricity worker was angry with Mrs. Anne for not opening the door.

C

I can't remember when I fell in love with music. Maybe it happened when I was feeling sad sometime long ago. I can't tell you exactly how music makes me feel better. But while listening to music, especially light music, it makes me feel calm (平静的) and peaceful.

Now I am listening to a song named Moon River. It is really a fantastic song. I didn't like this song at the beginning, but later I found its slow melody (旋律) and beautiful lyrics deeply touching.

"Oh, dream maker, you heart breaker. Wherever you're going I'm going your way. Two drifters (流浪者) are off to see the world. There's such a lot of world to see." Yes. Although there is a long way to go for the drifters and maybe there are many troubles ahead, he seems afraid of nothing.

I like music. Music reminds me that human beings have a lot in common even if they come from different countries or backgrounds, because we all have the same feeling or understanding of melodies and words.

- ( ) 48. Maybe I began to love music when I was _____ sometime long ago.

A. hungry                  B. thirsty                  C. sad                  D. excited

A. always gets good grades in the exams
B. is good at playing many kinds of musical instrument
C. is going abroad to have further education
D. has a different background from mine

D

Hello, everybody! And I am just so glad that all of the students could join us today. It's your beginning of your school life. I know that for many of you, today is the first day of school, so I can understand if you're a little nervous. When I was young, my mother didn't have enough money. I couldn't go to school like a normal kid. She decided to teach me extra lessons herself at 4 : 30 in the morning. Sometimes I was so tired that I fell asleep right there at the kitchen table. However, I never gave up.

I'm here because I want to talk with you about your education. Even if we can have the most responsible(负责的) teachers and the best schools in the world, you won't be successful unless you pay attention to listening to those teachers in class and unless you work hard.

Maybe you could be a great reporter, but you might know it after you write that English article in that English class. Maybe you could be an inventor, but you might not know it until you do your experiment in your science class. And no matter what you want to do with your life, you need a good education. Today I hope each of you set your own goals and do everything you can to achieve them.

- C. the need of setting their own goals
- D. working hard to make it

E

As soon as “the one family one child policy” ends, more and more families in China choose to have two kids. It’s quite normal to see a mother walking with her elder kid and holding the younger one in her arms on the street.

Zhang Li is among these mothers of two. Since she gave birth to her younger son, there have always been people asking her the same question, “Is it difficult for you to raise two boys?” On the one hand, the answer is “Yes”. It’s such a pain to her when the two boys fall ill together; when the two boys make a big mess at home, waiting for the tired and sleepy mother to clean up; when she sometimes has to work at home but her elder son keeps asking her to play with him and the younger one cries. However, on the other hand, there’s no better thing in the world than seeing the two kids playing with, helping and loving each other wherever they go. Zhang Li has learned to be a good mother since she had the first kid. She has learned to be a super strong mom since the second one came. She’s learned if she can’t work out everything, it’s best to let it go.

It’s never easy to be a mother, let alone (更不用说) a mother of two who is always expected to work hard and well. But just as Zhang Li’s friend Jenny says, if the world is full of downsides and difficulties, why not look through it with a pair of rose-colored glasses?

第Ⅱ卷(共 55 分)

VI. 任务型阅读。(第 65~67 题每小题 2 分,第 68 小题每小题 3 分,共 9 分)

阅读下文并回答问题。

Most of us use alarm clocks to wake up at the right time for school or work. We look at our watches to know the right time for the bus or train. However, there is also a right time to eat, sleep, exercise, and take medicine. We cannot look at a clock for the right time for these activities. We must listen to the clock which we all have inside our bodies: the biological clock.

Barbara Wells exercised every morning. She woke up at 6 : 00 A. m. She ran about two miles before she went to work. But Barbara's legs and back started to hurt. She did some exercise before she ran. But her legs and back still hurt. She ran slower, but the pain didn't stop. Barbara talked to her doctor. The doctor said, "Don't run in the morning. Try to exercise later in the day. That is the time when your body is at the right temperature for exercise." Her legs and back didn't hurt anymore.

Today, doctors are learning more about chronobiology, the study of the biological clock. They are learning about the importance of time to our bodies. For example, it is best for people to go to sleep on time every night and to eat only when they're hungry. Also, doctors discovered that some illness, such as heart problems, happen most often problem in the morning. The information tells them that the best time to take heart medicine is at night. When patients take heart medicine at night, they may prevent a heart problem in the morning.

Many doctors believe chronobiology can help us live healthier lives. It may be the right time to listen to these doctors!

65. Do we all have the biological clock inside our bodies?

66. Why did Barbara Wells's back and legs hurt?

67. What's the best time to take heart medicine?

68. According to the passage, what should you do to live a healthier life?
