More and more students become near-sighted now. There are many reasons for near-sightedness. Some students often play computer games for too long. Some keep their eyes too close to books while reading and some often read in poor light.

Bad eyesight brings trouble to our life and study. For example, we can't take notes in class without glasses, and we will feel uncomfortable to play sports with glasses.

In order to protect our eyes, we think we shouldn't sit in front of the computer or TV for hours. And we should take a break after reading or doing homework for a long time.

In a word, eyes are so important that all of us should do what we can to keep them healthy.
