Mobile phones are playing an important role in our life. Some people even say that they can't live without mobile phones. In the USA, some cities made a law(制定法律) on using mobile phones. According to the law, people will pay a fine if they use mobile phones when they walking across the street. What do you think of the law? Two students have shared their ideas.

George, 13, New York

Every year, there are too many traffic accidents caused by(由.....引起)people looking at their mobile phones. A lot of people were badly hurt or even died because of this. I think the new law will be helpful. There will be fewer accidents than before. The law can help to warn(警告)people not to use their mobile phones while they are walking across the street.

Linda, 14, Chicago

I don't think it will help people very much. Some people may have some important messages or emails. If they can't reply to them at once, they may miss something important. What's more(而且), people should pay more attention to(关注)some safety rules. They shouldn't just give up using mobile phones on the street. I think it's their right(权利)to use mobile phones any time.

55. What does the underlined word(划线词)"fine" probably mean in Chinese?
A. 礼品 B. 罚款 C. 工资 D. 建议

56. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. George and Linda had the same idea. B. George and Linda come from the same city.
C. George is younger than Linda. D. Four students have shared their ideas.

57. George thinks the law can help to warn(警告) people _____ while they are walking across the street.

- A. not to break the traffic rules B. not to use their mobile phones
C. not to talk with others loudly D. not to go or run around

58. The writer writes the article to _____.

- A. discuss a law on using mobile phones B. tell how traffic accidents happen
C. make some new traffic rules D. tell people to use mobile phones

Winter is coming and the weather is getting colder. Eating some hot food can make us feel warmer. But what will happen if we swim in a "hotpot"(火锅)?

Chongqing is famous for its delicious hotpot and lots of hot springs. Now, a place in that city becomes popular because it brings the two things together. In October, a "hotpot" swimming pool was open in Chongqing. The special pool is as big as a common swimming pool, and it also looks like a hotpot. The pool is full of red water. People use special medicine to make the water red, and it is good for visitors' health.

The visitors in the pool might feel like they are the foods in a hotpot. Some toy (玩具) fruits and vegetables are also in the pool. When the visitors are swimming in the pool, the water is cooking at a high temperature. But don't worry! The temperature is good for your physical health. "There are many "foods" in the pool, but you can't eat them." one visitor said.

59. The "hotpot" swimming pool in Chongqing brings _____ together, so it becomes popular.

- A. the idea of hotpot and hot springs B. fruits and vegetables C. red water and medicine

60. The water in the swimming pool becomes red because of the _____.

- A. special medicine B. toy fruits C. vegetables

61. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. The visitors can eat the "foods" in the swimming pool.
B. It's dangerous for the visitors to swim in the "hotpot" swimming pool.
C. Swimming in the "hotpot" swimming pool is good for our health.

62. The underlined words "hot springs" in the second paragraph mean _____.

- A. 火山 B. 温泉 C. 江岸

The Japanese love robots. There are more than 250,000 robot workers in Japan, more than any other country in the world. Now Japanese scientists make new robots. These robots look and act like humans. They are now at the Tokyo National Museum.

The team of robots includes(包括) two beautiful young women called Hitomi and Maki, and one baby called Telenoid. They all have their duties(任务). Hitomi is the museum's robot guide. She has one-to-one talks with visitors. Maki is a news reporter. She can get the latest news on the Internet. Then she reports it in several languages. As for Telenoid, people can pick him for a hug(拥抱)and have a short talk with him.

Hitomi and Maki can move their lips, blink(眨) their eyes and move heads from side to side. And their hands can move too. It takes the scientists lots of time and work to make them out.
