Mike has two sisters. The housework in their home is shared by the three kids. Mike's job is to water the flowers and clean the garden once a week. It's hard, but Mike loves it. He thinks it's relaxing. His sisters' job is to clean the house and help their parents with meals. They love helping out at home.

But it's quite different in Tina's home; Tina and her brother Jack never do housework. Their father loves them too much and doesn't want them to do it. Tina's mother is a manager and she is very busy. So Tina's father does most of the housework. He even helps Tina clean her bedroom. "He must be tired," Mike thinks.

And we will meet at the school gate at nine tomorrow morning. Our school will provide us with food and drinks at twelve. There is a big shop in the library and we can buy books there. Remember that we will leave the library at four in the afternoon.

Dear David,

I'm very glad to receive your email asking about my study and family life during the outbreak of COVID—19. Now I'm writing to tell you something about it.

Since the outbreak of the disease, the Chinese government has found many different ways to prevent its spread. Luckily, my parents and I are safe. During the holiday we were advised to wash hands as often as possible and put on masks whenever going out.

Though I couldn't attend school as usual, as a Grade 9 student, I worked out a careful study plan and studied very hard every day. Now I've been studying in the classroom with my classmates for several weeks and I hope I'll make more progress in every subject.

Thanks again for your kindness.

Yours,

Li Hua
