The Joy Comes Again

Joy was not something I expected after a death in our family.

My son Brendan died in an accident when he was 15 years old. I spent time learning about sadness to help my other children. My daughter, Lizzie is 10 years old and my son, Zack is 13 years old. I even bought a 41 on sadness and read it carefully.

The book taught me that they 42 to move through their sadness, not away from it. Then, in our living room, I got a chair and 43 dolls of Lizzie's on it, so she could play with them and told them everything would be all right. Zack's sadness was in the 44 of anger. He needed to move, so we filled our calendar with basketball games. After school, I watched him through the window as he played basketball hard alone. He jumped until he could not catch his 45.

Each day, I watched for their sadness and 46. I was not ready for their joy.

It came after my husband took them to the cemetery (墓地). Six weeks after Brendan's death, it was good that things went different when they came back home. I waited to 47 Lizzie. When she jumped out of the car, her eyes were full of 48, not sadness. She said, "I showed Brendan wheels for my toy cars." I was surprised. She said, "I finally did a good one. I wanted to 49 him."

Zack and Lizzie taught me to feel joy. They knew how to stay in the moment, 50 it was happy or sad. We do have moments of happiness. It comes in the memories we share and the love we still feel.

A soccer player, Carson Pickett, was born without a left forearm. She didn't have a role model when she was growing up. There was no one who looked like her to look up to, she said.

When she met 2-year-old Joseph Salvatore, she became the role model that she always wanted. Joseph was born without a left forearm as well, just like her. That has given Pickett and the little boy a special relationship.

"Truly within five minutes of meeting him, we had a connection," Pickett said. That surprised her because Joseph was so young. "It was fantastic to me that it felt like he realized why we were connected," she said.

Pickett met Joseph for the first time in April after a match. At that time, the player welcomed Joseph and showed him her arm. He raised his with a bright smile. Then, both of them were excited and felt like they were old friends.

Joseph's mother, Colleen Salvatore, took the picture, which caught this happy and meaningful moment. She put it on the Internet and the photo quickly went hot.

Joseph's parents have said that their son sees himself in this kind soccer player. Pickett said it went both ways. "I know I might be seen as his role model, but he's also mine," Pickett said. Joseph understands her "in a way other people can't," she said. "It's just a gift and pictures mean a lot," Pickett went on, "Hopefully when he gets older, he can see that and feel even more of what it means."

Now, she wants Joseph and others like him to know one thing. The lesson is "Even if people see you as different, you should have confidence and do what you think it is right."

59. What can we learn about Joseph from the passage?

- A. He first met Pickett in April. B. He was born without forearms.

Should Students Wear Uniforms?

Some schools have a rule saying that students must wear uniforms to class. Now, uniforms have become more common in public schools. Many schools say uniforms catch students' attention in class. But some students think uniforms are uncomfortable. Should students wear uniforms?

Our magazine asked readers to weigh. They have different ideas and here, two of them share their ideas on it.

•YES!

Yuna Chong, 9, California

Uniforms are as much about safety as they are about a sense of group. Teachers don't have to worry about losing sight of students at the playground or on a field trip. Also, when kids wear uniforms, they feel like they are part of the same group. I wear a uniform and feel like my school is one big team. I feel included.

Also, when everyone wears the same, you don't have to worry about how you look. Parents can save money as well! And in the morning, I can save time because I don't have to think too much about my clothing.
•No!

Sterling Heights, 12, Michigan

I don't think kids should have to wear uniforms. If students are wearing the same thing, they can't show themselves. Kids should feel like they can be their own person. They shouldn't have to match. During school hours, we should also be comfortable.

If we feel uncomfortable in our uniforms, we can't learn very well. For many, it can't be more uncomfortable to be in a uniform all day. Next, parents have to go shopping and spend a lot of money on the uniforms that we never wear at home.

What is your idea about it? Do you wear uniforms when you go to school every day? Write to our students' magazine and voice your idea!

62. How do kids feel like when they wear school uniforms in Yuna's opinion?

- A. They have a sense of group.
- B. They are out of teachers' sight.
- C. Their school isn't a big team.
- D. They are part of different groups.

63. Sterling thinks students don't like school uniforms because _____.

- A. they don't learn at all
- B. they try to match with others
- C. they don't want to waste time
- D. they don't wear uniforms at home

64. Who is the passage written for?

- A. The teachers.
- B. The students.
- C. The parents.
- D. The visitors.

When a person is experiencing stress(压力), they can feel worried. Feeling stress is a common part of life. One way to ease stress is making art.

Maybe you already draw or paint for much fun. It is never too late to start. Anyone can make art if you can hold a brush or crayon, and then you can draw or paint.

Creating art has something to do with your body. When you draw or paint, your breathing slows. As you pay attention to your artwork, you will stop thinking about the stressful things of the day. Making art can even give you energy.

Making art is not just about relaxing yourself; it can also help you to clear your mind and make your spirit fresh. As the famous artist Pablo Picasso once said, "Art washes the dust(灰尘) of everyday life from the mind."

Art can help you understand your own feelings. Through drawing and painting, you can tell feelings or ideas, which are hard to put into words.

If you do not know how to begin, here are some ways to start making art. First, without thinking about it carefully, choose colors that you like and start painting with them. Try not to think about shapes. Instead, just enjoy the colors. Second, carry a notebook with you. Try to draw or paint in it a little bit each day. Drawing or painting what you see will help you to feel connected to the things around you, such as your living environment and sights.

65. What can we do to ease stress according to the passage?

- A. Buy brushes.
- B. Carry notebooks.
- C. Play games.
- D. Mark art.

66. The writer gives us the example of Picasso to show _____.

- A. art can relax our body
- B. art can make our mind clear
- C. he is a famous artist
- D. our daily life has much dust

67. How can we begin making art?

- A. Think about it carefully.
- B. Choose our favorite colors.
- C. Think about many shapes.
- D. Draw or paint a lot each day.

68. What is the best title for the passage?

- A. Experience Heavy Stress
- B. Make Your Breath Slow
- C. Draw or Paint Just for Fun
- D. Make Art to Be Relaxed

Your new sports shoes could look good enough to eat. It's made by avocado(牛油果) on a piece of bread.

Some people are buying sports shoes that look like a piece of avocado bread.

The shoemaker, Saucony, has created this new kind of sports shoes. The sports shoes have brown lines around the bottom. It's meant to look like a piece of bread. On top of the brown is a green part. The sports shoes also include the color of red, which is on the shoes' opening to make it more like a real piece of avocado bread.

The sports shoes cost $130 and that is a lot more expensive than a piece of avocado bread. However, shoes fans are eating them up. By February 27, most were gone on Saucony's website. Out of the 17 sizes, 11 were sold out. Only 1,200 pairs were made, said Saucony spokesman Jason Faustino.

Besides, food companies have also made sports shoes too. In 2018, Pizza Hut created a new kind of sports shoes which could use Bluetooth to connect to the Internet. In this way, customers could order pizza easily.

Saucony probably won't make much money from the new shoes. However, many people are noticing. As a result, the sports shoes and the company are drawing buyers' attention and this is the most important thing.

Powell, a researcher, says Americans spend more money on sports shoes. U.S. sales were about $21.2 billion in 2018. That's up from $19.6 billion in 2017. He said, "Eating tasty food can make you feel good and wearing sports shoes makes you feel good, too. It is great to put them together."

69. According to the passage, what can we learn about the new sports shoes?

- A. They look good and taste good.
- B. They are in color of green and red.
- C. They have lines around the top.
- D. They are made of avocado bread.

70. What does the word "them" in Paragraph 4 refer to?

- A. Pieces of bread.
- B. Shoemakers.
- C. Saucony's websites.
- D. Sports shoes.

71. Why has Saucony created the new kind of sports shoes?

- A. To use Bluetooth.
- B. To draw buyers' attention.
- C. To sell avocado.
- D. To make it look like nice food.

72. What can we infer(推断) from the last paragraph?

- A. Americans spend more money on sports shoes.
- B. Americans love eating the food like the new shoes.
- C. The sports shoes were more expensive in 2018 than in 2017.
- D. The new food-shaped shoes will be more popular in America.

阅读下面短文，并用英语回答问题（请注意每小题后面的词数要求）

How to be Patient

Have you ever been stuck in a long, slow-moving lunch line? If so, you are not patient, or we say, you have felt impatient. You have this kind of feeling when things aren't happening as quickly as you want them to.

Impatience is something you can learn to control, though. A few simple ways can help quiet your impatient feelings.

How to be patient in the moment?

☆ Find out what is causing your impatience.

Try to find out what is causing this feeling. Ask yourself, "Why am I feeling this way?" Maybe you are in a situation that is not like what you planned. For example, maybe you are very hungry. You thought you could get lunch in the dining hall quickly, but there is a longer line than you expected. Now you have to wait.

☆ Take a deep breath.

Close your eyes and breathe in deeply. Hold your breath for a second and let the air out slowly. You will feel your body calm down. Sometimes impatience makes us say or do things we feel badly about later. Deep breathing can make you stop for a moment.

How to learn patience for the future?

When you feel impatient, write about it. Be sure to include your thoughts and feelings, too. Later, read what you wrote and look for ways. You may notice that similar situations always make you feel impatient. The next time you are in this situation, you will be more prepared.

73. When do you have the feeling of impatience? (不超过 11 个词)

74. How many things can we do to make us be patient in the moment? (不超过 5 个词)

75. What should we be sure when we write about our impatience? (不超过 10 个词)
