A zero-waste life is a lifestyle that hardly creates any rubbish. So, a zero-waste store is about providing a kind of everyday and pleasant-looking zero-waste products to help people start on a zero-waste life journey.

Yu Yuan, 27, is deeply interested in this idea. She and her boyfriend have lived in Beijing for many years. And earlier she used to buy things without thinking about them carefully until she saw a video about “zero waste”, in which a family of four placed the rubbish they produced every year in a jar (罐). After watching the video, Yu wanted to experience this zero-waste lifestyle with her boyfriend.

Now, the couple have opened a small shop in Beijing, where they use wood products to take the place of plastic ones and cloth bags printed with environmentally friendly logos. Most products sold in the store can be reused. The store also has second-hand books and CDs / DVDs with ideas to make the best of the used things.

() 39. What does Bea Johnson suggest?

- () 40. Which of the following is TRUE about Yu Yuan?

- () 41. What does Yu Yuan say in the last paragraph probably mean?

- () 42. Which of the following is the best title for the passage?

- A. Opening Up a Second-hand Store B. Recycling Waste
C. Saving the Environment D. Joining the Couple

If you look at the top of your phone, you'll usually see a little symbol that says 3G or 4G. The "G" stands for the "generation (代)" of your mobile network. But the symbols will become things of the past after 5G networks fully arrive.

On March 30th, 2019, Shanghai vice-mayor Wu Qing made the first 5G video call on a Huawei Mate X Smartphone. Shanghai has also become the first city in China to start testing 5G networks.

About 100 times faster than 4G networks, 5G will let people download and upload data (数据) faster than ever before. But 5G won't just bring faster mobile Internet. People can use it for many other things as well.

For example, 5G will help to make self-driving cars safer. Today's self-driving test cars have one problem — lag (延迟). When the car "sees" an obstacle (障碍物), it sends this information to a data centre and receives instructions. However, it will be some time before it sends and receives this information. With this kind of lag, the cars might crash because they don't receive instructions in time. With 5G, this lag will be greatly lowered, making the cars safer.

5G could also be used to power the Internet of things (IoT), that is, a large online network that connects all things and people. Fast Internet speeds will be the key to developing this technology. The IoT could be used in a lot of ways. For example, with IoT, your refrigerator could automatically (自动地) place an order online for eggs when it finds that there are no eggs left inside.

- () 43. Which city was 5G tested for the first time?
A. Beijing. B. Shanghai. C. Shenzhen. D. Guangzhou.
- () 44. What can we infer according to the passage?
A. 5G is widely used in China now.
B. 5G networks will make our lives more convenient.
C. There are no symbols at the top of our phones.
D. With 5G, the lag will be greatly increased.
- () 45. Why does the writer use self-driving cars as an example?
A. To explain how 5G's fast speed can be helpful.
B. To warn about the possible dangers of self-driving cars.
C. To explain how self-driving cars work.
D. To explain how self-driving cars will develop.
- () 46. Which sentence is TRUE according to the passage?
A. 5G will help us buy eggs quickly.
B. Robots can help us buy eggs online.
C. Our refrigerator can order eggs online for us.
D. Our refrigerator can tell us there are no eggs left inside.

According to Chinese medicine, the body is like a tree that lives through the seasons of nature, and it needs energy to stay healthy and prevent illness. The four important bodily organs (器官) need special energy in each season. We should eat special food and vegetables to protect them.

The liver (肝脏) enriches the blood with energy and cleans the bad things in the body. It is replenished (补充) in spring time. We'd better eat onions, carrots and some vegetable leaves.

The heart needs comfort and coolness from the heat in summer. Melons, pumpkins, cucumbers, tomatoes, bitter melons, and many fresh high-water vegetables have a cooling effect and should be eaten.

The lungs often suffer from colds, coughs, and sore throats in the dry fall season. They need to be replenished with food such as spinach (菠菜), bananas, pears and potatoes.

The kidneys (肾) are the lowest organs in the body like the roots of a tree. They need protection in winter specially. You should eat vegetables like broccoli, green chard and some other green vegetables.

On April 19th, 2019, a pottery (陶器) exhibition was held at Wuhan Optical Valley Experimental School. Many pieces of pottery in different sizes were shown at the school. Some were a bit broken, but all of them were beautiful works of art created by the students.

At the end of last year, the school started a project that called on teachers to collect disused or broken pieces of pottery from the countryside. So far, they have collected almost 3,000 pieces.

"Pottery used to play an important role in the daily lives of Chinese people," school head Ma Guoxin told the reporter. "By pottery painting, the students can improve themselves in many ways. They can better understand the history of the pottery, put their creativity into the pottery and show the love for life and beauty."

Students turned the pottery into different works of art. They were all encouraged to paint pictures on the pottery, even though some students didn't know how to paint. In March, the school held a pottery painting competition. Wang Zixuan, a student from Grade Eight, with little knowledge of painting, painted a beautiful night scenery on a piece of pottery. It was so nice that many students loved it.

Almost every classroom has coloured pieces of pottery. They are either used as flowerpots or pen containers (笔筒). The school has also set up several art corners to show the pottery. For example, the students have put some pottery on bookcases outside of a lecture hall (报告厅). It has become an enjoyable place for students to rest and read.
