Different weather makes people feel different. It influences people's health, intelligence (智力) and feelings.

In August, it is very hot and wet in the southern part of the United States. People there have heart trouble and other kinds of health problems. In the Northeast, it is very hot at some times and very cold at other times. People in these places have more heart trouble after the weather changes in February or March.

Students in many school of the United States often get worse grades on exams in the hot months of the year.

Weather also has a strong influence on people's feelings. Winter may be a bad time for thin people. They usually feel very cold during these months. So they might feel unhappy during cold winter. But fat people may have a hard time in hot summer.

Low air pressure (低气压) may make people forgetful. People forget more bags on buses and in shops on low-pressure days. People feel best at a temperature of about 18°C.

Prana was a beautiful dog. Although he died several years ago, I can still remember the days we spent together and what he has taught me about love.

I have two apple trees in my garden. Prana loves apples. When he went outside, he would catch an apple and take it into the house to eat later. The apples had been on the ground and were often dirty so I wasn't always happy that Prana had brought them into the house.

It was an autumn day in America, but it was very cold. A big snow fell and we had done nothing for its coming. On that special day, Prana went outside and I watched him through the window. I noticed that he was madly digging (挖) holes and bringing the apples to the ground so they could be seen above the snow. I didn't know why he was doing this. He seemed to want to do something special.

When I called him back, he had his usual one apple in his mouth. About five minutes later, I looked outside. The garden was completely covered with birds. Prana had dug up all the apples for his bird friends to eat. He knew that they didn't store enough food for the coming winter.
