An old man visited a new doctor. He was very young.

"I don't feel well, doctor," he said. "Please find out what's wrong with me."

"Take off your clothes and lie on the bed," the young doctor said. "I'll examine (检查) you."

The old man took off his clothes and lay down on the bed, and the young doctor examined him. But he couldn't find anything wrong with the old man. He listened to his heart. He looked into his throat (喉咙). He examined him carefully.

At last he said, "I am sorry, but I can't find anything wrong with you. You are very healthy."

"That is very strange," the old man said, "But I feel really bad."

"Come back tomorrow and see me again if you don't feel better," the young doctor said. "I will examine you again."

"All right, doctor," the old man said.

Slowly, he stood up and put on his clothes. Then he walked out of the doctor's room. A few minutes later, the doctor's nurse ran in. "Doctor! Doctor!" she cried. "That man who you examined just now has just died outside the door."

The doctor thought quickly. "Then turn the body around so that people will think he was coming in," he said.

When you are in England, you must be very careful in the streets because the traffic drives on the left.

Before you cross a street, you must look to the right first and then the left.
If the traffic lights are red, the traffic must stop. Then the people on foot can cross the road.
If the traffic lights are green, the traffic can go. People on foot mustn't cross.
In the morning and in the evening when people go to or come from work, the streets are very busy. Traffic is most dangerous then.

When you go by bus in England, you have to be careful, too. Always remember the traffic moves on the left. So you must be careful. Have a look first or you will go the wrong way.
