Our house was across the street from a big hospital. So we rented the upstairs rooms to patients. One evening, there was a knock at the door. I opened it to see a really terrible-looking man.

"Good evening. I come to see if you have a room. " He told me he was looking for a room to stay for a night. "I guess it's my face...I know it looks terrible..." For a moment I hesitated, but he said he was happy to just sleep on the floor. I said OK.

The old man had a big heart inside his small body. He told me that he fished for a living of his daughter, her five children and her disabled husband. He didn't tell me the story in a sad way. And he said he was thankful because he didn't feel unlucky from his skin cancer. Next morning, he said, "Could I come back and stay the next time? Your family made me feel at home." I told him he was welcome to come again.

On his next trip, he brought a big fish and some oysters. In later years he came to stay with us, there was never a time that he did not bring us things. But I know our family will always be lucky to know him. From him we learn how to look at the life in a different way and learn to look inside to find people's true beauty.

The BBC lists the top 10 popular foods for 2020. Let's take a look at some of them.

A blended burger is still a burger, and there's meat with different kinds of vegetables in it, such as mushrooms, squash or carrots. These burgers are lower in fat, but higher in nutrients than traditional burgers. They are healthier and better food choices.

If foods are healthy for your brain, they are becoming more and more popular. Brain-healthy foods are also called Nootropic foods. We often eat many of these foods like eggs, fish and dark chocolate.

In supermarkets, we like to buy good-looking fruits or vegetables. But in fact, "ugly"
