What kind of programs do British people like to watch? They’re dramas (戏剧) about ordinary (普通的) life in the UK. We call those dramas “soap operas”. The popular ones are usually on at least four times a week.

In the early days of the TV, there were dramas on during the day. Back in those days, men usually went out to work and women stayed at home and looked after the children. Most of those dramas were for women. People selling soaps would show the soaps at times when those dramas were on. The word “soap” came from here. Then what about the word “opera”? Well, that’s because those dramas were often exaggeration (夸张) of the real life.

Most soap operas these days are on in the evening. They have different storylines. The same people sometimes appear in different soap operas, too.

There are lots of different soap operas on in the UK, but there are three most popular ones. Coronation Street has been on since 1960. It shows the life of the working class. The second one is Eastenders and it started in 1985. The third one is Emmerdate. It came out on October 16th, 1972. The setting (背景) of it is similar to the one of The Archers.

- ()56. How often can British people watch the popular soap operas?
 A. At least twice a week. B. At least three times a week.
 C. At least four times a week. D. At least four times a month.
- ()57. Which paragraph tells us why people call the dramas “soap operas”?
 A. Paragraph 1 B. Paragraph 2 C. Paragraph 3 D. Paragraph 4
- ()58. Which is the second oldest of the three most popular soap operas in the UK?
 A. Coronation Street B. Eastenders C. Emmerdate D. The Archers
- ()59. Which of the following is TRUE?
 A. British people can only watch the three popular soap operas now.
 B. Watching TV is more popular than any other activity in the UK.
 C. Most soap operas are on at the same time.
 D. We can learn about the working class of the UK by watching Coronation Street.

()60. What's the best title for this passage?.

- A. Watching TV. B. Life in the UK.
C. Families in the UK. D. Soap operas in the UK.
