B

I used to be a bad girl in primary school. I didn't care what you said to me or what you did for me.

I still remember one day when I invited some of my friends to our house to play with my new toy and enjoy snacks. I threw litter around and broke cups in the kitchen, which could have hurt us. The moment you opened the door, I noticed that you were standing there in shock and couldn't speak. Then we went on playing as if you were not there.

In fact, while I was playing with my friends in the living room, you were doing some cleaning in the kitchen. Later I knew that you didn't want to make me embarrassed (尴尬的) in front of my friends. It was a shame that I didn't realize your kindness at that time.

But something changed one year later when I was in middle school. One day when I came back home from school, you were coughing (咳嗽) badly. I looked at you for a long time for the first time with a heavy heart. I was growing up, but you were not young. This time I did something that surprised you. I gave you a very long hug (拥抱) with tears in my eyes.

Mom! Please forgive (原谅) me! Not until then did I know how tired you had been since I was born. You did everything for me and our family as well.

I love you, Mom!

第一节 阅读下面短文，根据短文内容，按要求完成任务。

The dragon (龙) is a great animal in Chinese culture.(A) It brings the wind and rain. It is said that every year on the second day of the second lunar (阴历的) month, the dragon wakes up from its winter sleep and raises its head. Because of this, the day is called “Dragon Heads-raising Day” (Longtaitou). This year, it falls on March 14.

Old people believed that after Longtaitou, there would be more rain. And rain is very important to farming. So Longtaitou was the start of spring and farming.

(B) People have many ways to celebrate the Longtaitou festival. The most popular one is to have a haircut. Many believe that a haircut during the first lunar month may bring bad luck to your uncles — mainly your mother’s brothers. They hope getting a haircut on Longtaitou gets rid of bad luck.

Among Chinese people’s festival traditions, there is always a place for food. During the Longtaitou festival, people eat food named after dragons. Noodles are called dragon’s beard (胡须) (longxu). Dumpling are dragon’s ears (long’er). And spring rolls are dragon’s scales (鳞片) (longlin).

(C) People also hold activities like dragon dancing on the day. In some places in Shandong province, people make dragon lanterns (灯笼) too. Small reed (芦苇) boats go down the rivers and carry the lanterns, which stand for people’s best wishes and good luck.

Meet the Insects（昆虫）

We can find insects all around the world. Insects can be lots of shapes, sizes, and colors. There are more insects than any other kind of animal.

How can you tell if a bug is an insect? Read on to find out.

The Body of an insect

All insects have six legs and three body parts. Insects have no bones. The outside of an insect’s body is hard. It protects (保护) the insect’s body. Most insects have antennas (触角) and wings. Insects use their senses to find food. A fly smells with its antennas. It tastes with its feet. That’s why flies like to land on food. Insects do not see the same as we do. Many insects have more than two eyes. A grasshopper (蚱蜢) has five!

Fun Insect Facts

Some ants can lift 20-100 times their own weight. A dragonfly can fly 22-30 miles an hour. Termites (白蚁) build big mounds (土堆). They can be up to 30 feet high.

Insects are amazing!
