Several months ago, Henry's wife passed away. He felt that life without her was meaningless. For months, Henry sat in his house, doing nothing. The people around him tried to encourage Henry to do new things and enjoy life, but they were not successful.

One day, Henry's neighbor Lisa, an old woman, saw him. "Hello, Henry! Just look at my fence. It is falling apart. Can you help me fix this fence?" Lisa asked.

Henry was angry inside. He was the one who needed help. He thought the old lady was being rude (粗鲁的). But she was too old to fix the fence herself, so he agreed.

Henry worked on the fence for days. Lisa brought him lemonade when he worked. When he finished, she thanked him. Henry smiled for the first time in months.

"What a wonderful job! Could you please paint it for me?" Lisa asked him again after he fixed the fence.

Henry could not believe she was asking for more help. "Doesn't she know how sad I am?" But because she needed his help and he didn't want to make her disappointed, he agreed. He worked hard painting the fence in the hot sun, but Lisa's lemonade and encouragement were helpful. As their neighbors passed by, they all told Henry what a beautiful job he had done. Henry felt very happy.

Now, Henry no longer feels that life is meaningless. He finally realized that Lisa wasn't being rude. He helped her, but she truly saved him.

C

The Chinese paddlefish was part of an ancient group of fish that had lived since around 200 million years ago.

This world's largest freshwater fish could reach up to be unbelievable 7 meters long and weigh as much as nearly half a ton. It had a long, silver-colored body and a very large mouth. With weakly developed eyes, the fish fed with its mouth open and used its long, sword-like nose to sense its food. And its rarity also made this fish become the "Panda of the Yangtze River".

The Chinese paddlefish mainly lived in the large rivers, but sometimes travelled into large lakes. They were strong swimmers. But wherever they went, they usually lived alone and took up the lower part of the water. Unlike the American paddlefish, the Chinese paddlefish was mainly feeding on small to medium-sized fishes in rivers or lakes.

Although the Chinese paddlefish spent part of their life in the lower section of the Yangtze, they travelled up to lay eggs, which happened in spring, from mid-March to early April. The grown fish can lay a large number of eggs. There used to be tons of Chinese paddlefish in the Yangtze River.

After the 1970s, the number of the paddlefish became smaller and smaller. There have only been two alive fish recorded. The Chinese paddlefish was reported to be extinct(灭绝的) in a study by Chinese scientists in late 2019. In fact, it hasn't been seen since 2003 and it's thought that it died out sometime between 2005 and 2010.

37. Which of the following is the Chinese paddlefish?

38. The underlined word "rarity" in Para. 2 means something ▲.

- A. dangerous      B. lovely      C. uncommon      D. popular

39. What can we know about the Chinese paddlefish from the passage?

- A. How long their lives were.      B. Why they became extinct.
C. Where and how they lived.      D. How many eggs they laid exactly.

D

Comfort Zone is a state of mind where there is the least stress. However, stepping into the learning zone can help to bring out the best in us. Here are the reasons.

▲ Challenging yourself can help you do at your best.

Stepping out of one's comfort zone is important to personal development. How can we expect to make ourselves better if we only stick to habit and routine(日常)? We should try something we might not succeed at.

▲ Taking risks is what helps us grow.

As children, we were natural risk-takers. But as we get older and learn to fear failure(失败), we start trying fewer new things. We pay a heavy price for our fear of failure. There is no learning without some difficulty.

▲ Facing new challenges can help us grow better.

Our comfort zones seem to become smaller as we get older, but if we can keep expanding(扩展) them, we'll open ourselves up to a greater world as we grow. As we step into the learning zone, we will get more comfortable with the skills gradually and we'll start to move into the comfort zone. A study found that learning new life skills can help our brain stay sharp(敏锐

的) as we get older.

However, don't push yourself too far. Have you heard of "Yerkes-Dodson Law"? It means performance increases as stress grows, but only up to a point. If the level of stress becomes too high, performance will go down. When stress becomes too great for us to deal with, we step into the dangerous zone.

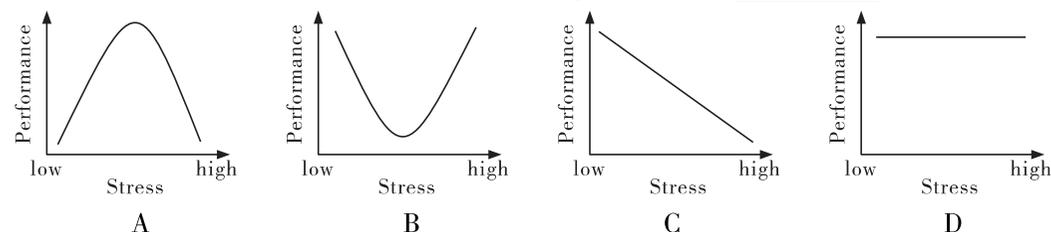

40. Compared with the comfort zone, people in the learning zone may ▲.

- A. feel less stress      B. face more challenges
C. make fewer efforts      D. refuse more changes

41. According to Para. 3, we will learn less if we ▲.

- A. try new things      B. fear failure      C. meet some difficulty      D. take risks

42. "Yerkes-Dodson Law" can be described by Graph(曲线图) ▲.

43. The best title of the passage might be ▲.

- A. Comfort Zone Makes Us Safe      B. What Is Comfort Zone
C. Step Out of Comfort Zone      D. Never Fear Comfort Zone

卷 II (共 39 分)

说明:本卷共四大题,25 小题,满分 39 分。

四、任务型阅读(本题有 4 小题,每小题 1 分,共 4 分)

Sunny School 正在开展消防安全主题学习,假如你是学生 Mike,请阅读宣传资料,把“火灾安全逃生指南”补充完整,每空限填一词。

Keeping Safe in School During a Fire

Though you may not think you'll ever happen to meet a fire, it's better to be prepared to avoid panicking(恐慌). To increase your chances of survival, just follow these tips.

♣ If you see a fire or smell smoke, don't wait. All the rooms in the school have got fire alarm switches(开关). Use something hard like a shoe, to break glass and start the fire alarm. Don't stop to get your course books and notes. Leave your bag in the room.

♣ If you don't see smoke at the door, open it slowly and pass through it after making sure the door feels cool. If there is a fire preventing you from getting out of the room, close the door.

♣ Protect yourself from smoke inhalation(吸入). Get low to the floor and crawl on your hands and knees to avoid the smoke. Cover your nose and mouth if you have to walk by or through a heavily smoke-filled room.

♣ Don't run! Walk quickly to the parking area. Remember to follow the directions on the fire escape map.

♣ Don't go home! Wait for your teacher to call your name and be sure that you are safe. Be careful. Don't go back into the school buildings unless a teacher has told you that it is safe.

Fire Emergency Guidance in Sunny School

- ① Break the glass with something hard, and start the fire alarm.
- ② Make sure the door is cool and with no 44 in, then open it slowly.

- ④ Walk quickly to the parking area by following the directions on the 46.
- ⑤ Stay and wait outdoors 47 the teachers ask you to go back into the buildings.

五、单词拼写(本题有 10 小题,每小题 1 分,共 10 分)

根据短文内容和所给中文提示,在空白处写出单词的正确形式。每空限填一词。

Dad looked tired and weak when he got home from the hospital, but his smile was as sure as ever. My husband and I 48 (很少) had time to stay with him. It was good that our 49 (亲戚) often helped him. But I hoped Dad knew that we cared him, too. Then I remembered a game. Before leaving grandparents' home, 50 (每一个) child would write a love note and hide it somewhere like a 51 (角落) in the house for our grandparents to look for. After we left, our grandparents would be 52 (耐心的) to enjoy looking for the notes around the house. So as I 53 (进入) Dad's room, I began writing notes. Some were about his 54 (每天的) needs. "Dad, I put the milk in the fridge so it wouldn't go bad." Some were written to 55 (表达) my love. "Dad, I hope you sleep well." Most notes were in his room because he would stay there for weeks, but I hid a 56 (粉色的) note in the garden. "Dad, if you find this note, you must be feeling better. We will be so glad."

Several weeks later, Dad phoned and said proudly, "I have just found your note 57 (在外面) my room!" I smiled at last.

六、语法填空(本题有 10 小题,每小题 1 分,共 10 分)

阅读下面的短文,在空白处填入一个适当的词,或填入括号中所给单词的正确形式。

"A hunter(狩猎者) in a tree shot a black bear that began climbing up the tree towards him," 58 officer in America said.

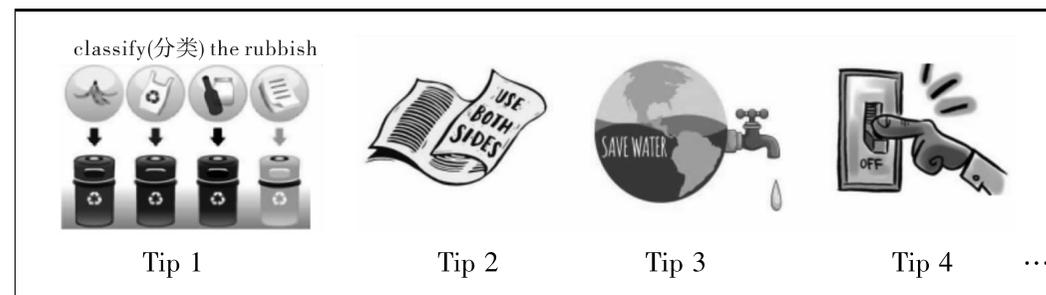

The hunter went out hunting 59 rabbits on Saturday morning. He made a noise and drew the young male bear's attention. With fear, he climbed one of the trees to hide 60 (he). But the bear, which was about 85 to 100 61 (pound), began following the hunter up the tree.

The hunter shouted at the bear several times, hoping to drive it away, but the bear kept 62 (climb). The hunter shot the bear when it was about 3 feet away because he was worried about his 63 (safe). The bear fell out of the tree and 64 (land) on the ground. The hunter was so scared that he 65 (quick) left the tree and called the police.

The hunter said he noticed the bear walking in the area, but he didn't know 66 the bear was really trying to hurt him. Or maybe it just smelled something on him, such as the food from him. The officer said, "Luckily, the hunter will not 67 (punish), because he isn't against the American laws which protect the wild animals."
