W: Hi, Bob. What club do you want to join?

M: I want to join a sports club.

W: Great! What sports can you play?

M: Soccer.

W: So you can join the soccer club.

M: What about you? You're very good at telling stories. You can join the story telling club.

W: Sounds good. But I like to draw, too.

M: Then join two clubs, the story telling club and the art club!

W: OK, let's join now!

M: Hello, Emily! Are you ready for the journey to Xi'an?

W: I think so. I've almost got everything ready for it.

M: That's great! I'm sure you'll enjoy your trip. Xi'an is a beautiful city with a long history.

W: But I'm a little nervous.

M: Really? What for?

W: You know my Chinese isn't good enough. I'm too shy to speak Chinese in public.

M: Don't worry. Many Chinese people can speak English now. I'm sure they can understand you.

W: Oh, that's great.

听第 8 段对话，回答第 10、11 小题。

Text 8

W: Hi, James. What are you looking at?

M: I am looking at the map of the history museum.

W: Why? Are you going there?

M: Yes. There is a picture show about Asian culture. I am planning to visit it this weekend.

W: Sounds interesting. Can I go with you?

M: Sure. Oh, the bell is ringing. It's time for English class. Let's talk about it later.

W: Bob, Kate has just left.

M: I know. Before I got home, I received her call.

W: Oh, she returned your Chinese book. I put it on your bed.

M: Whose is this white scarf on my bed? Is it Lily's?

W: No, your sister Lily doesn't like white. It must be Kate's. Take it with you and then return it to Kate at Linda's party this evening.

M: This evening Kate won't go to Linda's party.

W: Why?

M: She is visiting her aunt Betty Brown with her parents. She won't be back before 10:00 p.m.

M: Mary, will you teach me some Japanese expressions?

W: Sure, but we can do that later on. Now I want to tell you some customs in Japan because your manners matter more.

M: OK.

W: Erm, I think the most important thing is not to wear shoes on tatami floors.

M: Tatami? What's that?

W: It's a traditional material that floors are made of in Japan. You must never walk on them with your shoes on.

M: OK. I'll take off my shoes when I enter a room.

W: Another thing is never to blow your nose in public. Japanese people think it's rude.

M: Really? Oh, no, I caught a cold last week so I did that.

W: Also, during meals, leave your chopsticks on the plate or the table. Please don't stick them into the bowl.

M: I think I'll have to write these rules in my notebook. But do you have a pen?

Text 12

Last Sunday afternoon Sam went to clean the city park. He worked there for three hours. At five o'clock he left there. On the way home he saw a dog lying on the road. Its left leg was hurt and it was very hungry.

Sam carried it home. He put it into the bathroom. It got out of the bathroom several times. After it was cleaned, Sam took it to see the animal doctor. The doctor gave the dog some medicine and told Sam the dog would be fine.

Sam wanted to keep the dog but he couldn't because his mom worried it would hurt his six-month-old sister Sally. So Sam put the dog's picture on the Internet. Five days later a family took it home. Sam was glad to see his friend go to a good home.

书面表达：One possible version:

Hello, everyone! In order to develop the man-machine conversation test, we all have made the best use of resources from English APPs to practice English. Now I'll tell you something about my learning.

I have been practicing my spoken English for two years by English APP. Every evening I spent about twenty minutes on it. There are many different kinds of learning resources in an APP. For example, I usually followed the words, conversations and texts. Sometimes I answered the questions orally. In order to practice better, I always repeated them at least three times. Sometimes I carefully finished the tasks that my English teacher gave us in time.

Throughout Interesting Dubbing and reading, not only my vocabulary has increased a lot, but also I have improved my spoken English. Now my spoken English is very fluent, and I can answer the questions in oral rapidly. I believe that I will get better grades in the tests.

That's all. Thank you for sharing my experience with me.
