One day, I was taking a nap(小睡) in my office when I woke up to the 43 of a car crash. I looked out of my window. A car had just backed into a fence and damaged it.

The driver got out of the car. He was short without hair on his head. I 44 him at once.

To my surprise, the man tried to 45 the damage he caused. However, his efforts all 46. Once he even funnily fell onto the road when trying to pull the fence. I 47 a lot. The failure of this terrible man was 48 my whole day.

About 10 minutes later, the man left.

That, I thought, would be the 49 of his efforts. The man—that villainous(可憎的) man—was going to 50 all the mess behind for someone else to clean up.

But this is the 51 of windows. They contradict(与……矛盾) your easy assumptions(臆断). The man appeared a few minutes later with some 52. For the next hour, I watched out of my window as he kept on fixing the fence 53 it was extra safe, stronger than before.

This man was a hero. My 54 assumptions, I realized, were all about myself. I would be 55 and run away if I came across such a messy situation.

My window had woken me up from a nap to teach me a lesson, a lesson that changed my whole day and even my whole life.

World's Loneliest Elephant Now Has Friends

Kaavan the elephant has been described as “the world’s loneliest elephant”. Life was hard for Kaavan. The conditions at the zoo weren’t good. He had a friend, but the friend died later. Because of this, his health got worse and worse.

(Kaavan was the only Asian elephant in Pakistan. Global News)

When pictures of Kaavan, chained (拴住) and alone, were put on the Internet, they spread widely and made many people upset around the world. A group planned to take Kaavan to Cambodia, but there were two problems: Kaavan was way too heavy, and he could be violent (暴力的).

Dr. Amir Khalil worked with Kaavan for three months. He put him on a healthy diet and helped the elephant lose 990 pounds. He also managed to make friends with Kaavan in a surprising way—by singing to him. It didn’t take long before Kaavan gave Dr. Khalil gentle hugs with his trunk (象鼻).

Kaavan made the seven-hour flight to Cambodia with no problems. Kaavan is now in a protected wildlife area in Cambodia, where there are 600 other elephants. He’s no longer alone.

56. According to the material, we can know that _____.

A. The news Kaavan was the only Asian elephant in Pakistan, was reported by Asian

Information

- B. The picture was provided by Global News
- C. The news comes from Animal World

A butcher watching over his shop was really surprised when he saw a dog coming inside the shop. He went over to the dog and noticed it had a note in its mouth. He took the note and it read "Can I have a leg of lamb, please. The dog has money in his mouth, as well."

The butcher looked carefully and was surprised to find that there was really a ten-dollar note there. So he took the money and put the lamb in a bag, placing it in the dog's mouth. The butcher was so impressed, and since it was about closing time, he decided to shut up shop and follow the dog.

So off he went. He followed the dog to a bus stop. The dog stopped and started looking at the timetable. The dog checked out the time, and then sat on one of the seats provided. Along came a bus. The dog walked around to the front, looked at the number, and went back to its seat.

Another bus came. Again the dog went around to the front, looked at the number and climbed on. The butcher, by now, open-mouthed, followed it onto the bus.

The bus traveled through the town and out into the suburbs. Eventually the dog got up, and moved to the front of the bus. It stood on two back paws and pushed the button to stop the bus. Then it got off with groceries still in its mouth. Well, the dog and the butcher were walking along the road, and then the dog turned into a house. It walked up the path, and dropped the groceries on the step. Then it walked back down the path, took a big run, and threw itself against the door. Then again, it threw himself against it. There's no answer at the house, so the dog waited at the door.

The butcher watched as a big guy opened the door, and started shouting at it. The butcher ran up, and stopped the guy. "Why do you shout at the dog? It is really a genius." The guy responded, "You call this clever? This is the second time this week that this stupid dog's forgotten its key."

61. Why was the butcher surprised when he saw the dog?

- A. Because there was a note in the dog's mouth.
- B. Because a dog was not supposed to come into his shop alone.
- C. Because the dog was not afraid of being butchered.
- D. Because the dog could read.

62. The passage implies that _____.

- A. dogs are cleverer than man
- B. dogs are our best friend
- C. the butcher is a cruel person
- D. some people are never satisfied with what they have got

63. The dog threw itself against the door, because _____.

- A. it wanted to force the door open
- B. it wanted its owner to open the door
- C. it wanted to punish itself for forgetting the key
- D. it wanted to get the butcher's help

64. Which of the following statements is NOT true?

- A. The butcher was curious so he followed the dog.
- B. The dog didn't get on the first bus because it was the wrong number.

C. To get off the bus, you should let the driver know by pressing the button.

D. The dog would be driven away by the big guy.

65. Which may be the best title of the passage?

A. A clever dog.

B. A curious butcher.

C. A cruel owner.

D. A second lost key.

C

Since the age of three, Chelsie Hill had dreamed of becoming a dancer. That dream nearly ended in 2010 when Hill was in a car accident, which put the 17-year-old high school senior in hospital for 51 days and she wasn't able to feel and move from the waist (腰部) down. For most people, that would have ended any hope of dancing. But for Hill, it was the beginning. Instead of being a trouble in the way, her wheelchair emboldened her to fight. "I want to show everyone including myself that I'm still normal," she said, "whatever normal means."

Normal for her meant dancing, so Hill did it in her wheelchair along with her non-disabled high school dance team. Half of her body was taken away from her, so she had to move it with her hands. It took much learning and patience.

After graduation from high school, Hill wanted to develop her dance network (组织网络) to include women like her. She met people online who were fighting for the dream of dancing against different kinds of injuries (伤), and invited them to dance with her. To reach more people in a larger city, Hill moved to Los Angeles in 2014 and formed a team of dancers with disabled people she called the Rollettes.

Every year Hill holds a dance camp called the Rollettes Experience for wheelchair users to help them bring out their acting talent. In 2019, 173 people from ten countries attended. For many, it was the first time they'd felt they belonged. Edna Serrano said that being part of the Rollettes team gave her the courage to get behind the wheel of a car. "I didn't know I could do so many things that my fellow teammates had taught me," she said. "It's so powerful to have my teammates in my life, because they're my teachers. I become more confident."

Chelsie Hill achieved what many of us never will: her childhood dream. She has been following her dream in the wheelchair. She's a dancer. The Rollettes have helped her find something else just as meaningful.

66. What happened to Chelsie Hill in 2010?

A. She had a serious disease.

- B. She gave up her hope of dancing.
- C. She realized her dream of becoming a dancer.
- D. She became seriously disabled because of a car accident.
67. Why did Chelsie Hill set up the Rollettes in 2014?
- A. To improve her dance business.
- B. To develop her social network.
- C. To encourage more people like her.
- D. To look for more chances to dance.
68. The underlined word “emboldened” in the passage probably means _____.
 A. caused B. chose C. prepared D. encouraged
69. What change did the Rolletes Experience bring to Edna Serrano?
- A. She could help others.
- B. She learned how to drive.
- C. She had more plans about her future.
- D. She became more confident than before.
70. The best title for the passage should be _____.
 A. Chelsie Hill: A Brave Dancer
 B. An Interesting Story of Dancers
 C. How to Dance in a Wheelchair
 D. A Dance Camp for the Disabled People nicely
