an animal organization. She feeds animals, walks them and plays with them there. Some animals need special care, so she spends a lot of time with those animals.

Krithi also started FurEver, an animal club, at school. She got a lot of help from her head teacher. After school, she spends her time with other students of the animal club. They meet every other week to plan their activities. Through those activities, they raise money for the club to help animals.

When Krithi is free, she writes a book about her dog, Sushi. Krithi and her family love him very much.

“He knows how I feel,” Krithi says. “When I feel sad and depressed, he makes me feel better. He brings happiness to everyone in my family.”

Sushi makes everyone feel loved and happy, so Krithi wanted to write a book about her dog called Super Sushi. What will she do with the money from the book? She says she will give it to an animal organization.

Krithi hopes to be an animal lawyer one day. Then Krithi can do more for her animal friends.
