A new coronavirus(冠状病毒), a cousin of the SARS virus called COVID-19, has infected more than 73 million people on the earth. Scientist Leo Poon, who first decoded (解码) the virus, thinks it likely started in an animal and spread to humans.

What is a coronavirus

Coronaviruses are a large group of viruses that are common among animals, they can be transmitted(传播) from animals to humans, according to the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The viruses can make people sick, usually with a mild(轻度) to moderate(中度) upper respiratory tract illness(上呼吸道疾病), similar to a common cold. Coronavirus symptoms include a runny nose, cough, sore throat, possibly a headache and maybe a fever, which can last for a couple of days.

For those with a weakened immune system, the elderly and the very young, there's a chance the virus could cause a lower, and much more serious, respiratory tract illness like a pneumonia or bronchitis (支气管炎).

How it spreads

Viruses can spread from human contact with animals. When it comes to human-to-human transmission of the viruses, often it happens when someone comes into contact with the infected(感染的) person's secretions (分泌物). Depending on how virulent (有毒的) the virus is, a cough, sneeze or handshake could cause exposure. The virus can also be transmitted by touching something an infected person has touched and then touching your mouth, nose or eyes. Caregivers (护理人员) can sometimes be exposed by handling a patient's waste, according to the CDC.

A scientist once said that the Internet was the world's largest library, but that all the books were on the floor! In other words, it's full of information but it can be difficult to find just what you're looking for. The Internet has another drawback, too. Anyone can create a website, which means you can find websites about every subject imaginable. Unluckily, it also means that a lot of what is written on them isn't true!

The Internet provides more than just information. There are sites where you can download (下载) music and films either for free or for a small charge (收费). Other sites allow you to get in touch with people from all over the world and there are some great online shops. On eBay (易趣网), for example, people sell used clothes, CDs and even cars very cheaply.

The Internet has changed the way we work and communicate, but we shouldn't depend on it too much. Because of its size, it's very difficult to control and a lot of the information isn't worth reading. Some people also fear that surfing the net (上网) has taken the place of other healthier activities, especially for young people. Whether you like it or hate it, you'd better get used to it because it's here to stay!

Here's a survey (调查) about how people of my age use the Internet. 80% of them said they used it to help them with their homework. 70% said they used it to keep in touch with their friends. 40% said that they downloaded music from the Internet. GO is called Weiqi in China. It is an old Chinese board game for two players. It has a long history of over 3,000 years. 66. So people didn't think AI (人工智能) would win before. However, things have changed because of a special match that caught many people's attention. Le Se-dol is from South Korea. 67. In March, 2016, he played against a computer program called Alphago. Their game was seen as a competition between humans and AI. But unluckily, Le Se-dol lost the game.

People were so surprised that they couldn't believe the result. 68. They remembered the saying that robots would control the world in the future. In fact, we needn't be afraid of it. Robots could never think by themselves. Even though some robots can do some things as well as humans, or even better, they are just acting from their programs. 69. For example, they could never use words to talk about their own opinions. So robots won't control the world.
