Last summer, our class went to a country primary school. First, we gave some school things such as books and crayons to them. Then we talked about our school life. I was quite shy before, but this time, I talked with some students for almost an hour. I shared my good ways of studying with them. Finally, we played games together. All of us felt so happy.

By doing the volunteer work, I not only got happiness, but also became more confident. It made me know that giving is receiving.
