People eat turkey on Thanksgiving Day in America. Do you know why?

Thanksgiving is a day to remember some American people in history. They sailed from Britain to reach America. They called it the New World. It was a long time ago.

Americans worked hard to make a new life in the New World, but it was difficult. Many of them died in the winter. But they were successful. In the next autumn, they had a celebration on Thanksgiving Day to celebrate the harvest and other blessings of the past year.

They went to the forest to hunt and they got some turkeys for dinner. Then they roasted the turkeys for dinner.

Today, people in America still enjoy eating turkey during Thanksgiving.

Whales are the biggest animals in the world. They live happily in the sea. But some countries have a cruel(残忍的) tradition—whaling.

Japan is an island country. Fishing is a big part of its culture.

In ancient(古代) Japan, people hunted whales for many uses. They used whale oil and whale bones  to make things. They ate whale meat. One whale can feed many people.

In some places in Japan, whales mean the harvest. People hunted whales and built temples(建寺庙) for them.

To protect whales, many countries signed an agreement(协议) to stop whaling in 1986. Japan was one of them. But in July 2019, Japan began whaling again. Some schools even cook whale meat for students.

Whales are important to the sea. They swim up and down. They bring salt for plankton(浮游生物) to eat. Many animals and plants live on their poops(粪便). When they die, their bodies can feed small animals for about 100 years.

However, the number of whales is going down. Many people from Japan and other countries hunt whales secretly(偷偷地). Every year, they kill around 1,500 large whales. Some whales have nearly died out because of hunting, such as blue whales. How can we help them? Do you have any ideas?
