Most of people like playing cards, How about you? Do you like playing cards? What else can you do with the cards?

Bryan Berg is a special American bulderureun. He has a great hobby. He uses playing cards to build buildings.

When Bryan Berg was 8 years old, his grandfather showed him how to build houses of cards--a lesson he had great interest in and learned a little too well. He liked trying different ideas and was good at using imagination to make things. He has kept on doing this to this day happily.

Bryan's buildings are amazing, because they are made of playing cards and he never uses glue, tape, or anything else to hold the cards together. The buildings are not strong. People must be very careful when looking at them. He holds World Records for the tallest card building, about 7.9 metres, and the biggest--a building he built in Macau took 45 days and 219,000 cards.

Look at the picture, please. Do you believe the buildings are made of playing cards?
