Everybody can suffer from stress. No matter what your age is, you can feel stressed out by things that are happening in your life. Teenagers, however, have more chances to get stressed than people in any other age group. Being a teenager is hard. You are not a child anymore, but you are not an adult, even though you have to deal with some grown-up problems and decisions. Family can be one of the biggest causes of stress, such as problems with parents arguing at home, or problems with brothers and sisters. Teenagers also have a lot of stress from school, either from their teachers or from their friends. Some teenagers also feel stressed about choosing their education after high school. Getting a place at university can be very difficult.
