Once a king got two nice falcons (猎鹰) from his son. He had never seen such beautiful falcons before. He loved them so much and he ordered the best falconer to train them to fly.

After several months, the king came to see how the training was going on. He found that one falcon had already been able to fly high in the sky, while the other was staying on the branch (树枝) of a tree quietly, just keeping still.

The king called all his falconers together and ordered them to try every way they could to make the other falcon fly. But none of them succeeded. One day, while the king was taking a walk in the forest, an idea came to his mind. Maybe someone who knew the natural environment well could solve this problem. He sent for a farmer who lived in the forest into his palace to train it at once.

The next morning, the king saw the other falcon flying above in the sky freely. "It is unbelievable!" shouted the king. How could you make it happen?"

The farmer replied, "It's very easy. I just cut off the branch where the falcon rested."

It is always the same to human beings. We all have "two flying wings" in our hearts as well, but we often seem not to notice them and stay where we are just for safety and comfort. We won't realize we can fly so high and freely until the "branch" we are resting on breaks.

What can you tell from a person's music taste? Perhaps more than you think! The music we listen to can tell us a lot about our personality. And the latest research shines a light on heavy metal music and its fans.

Research from the University of Westminster, UK, discovered that heavy metal lovers have very similar personalities. Listeners share key features: they don't like authority (权威) and want to be unique. But interestingly, they found that metal lovers have low self-esteem (自尊). Loud, strong, chaotic (混乱的) rock is a good way to describe heavy metal. So what type of person listens to such music? As you may expect, men are more likely to listen to it.

These features seem to fit together, as the report explains, "Heavy metal may, in turn, help to improve self-worth and promote positive self-evaluations (自我评价) among those with low self-esteem." So people with low self-esteem tend to use heavy metal as a pick-me-up.

However, much is misunderstood of heavy metal music, and its fans. Rather than taking fans as antisocial or violent, as the report suggests, these findings can help us understand the important role music plays in some people's lives.

Do you enjoy listening to heavy metal music? Maybe some of you have never heard of it before. If you wonder what it sounds like, then why not give it a listen. If you're not sure who to listen to, you can try two well-known bands: Iron Maiden and Black Sabbath.
