Papermaking and Printing

The compass(指南针), gunpowder, papermaking, and printing(印刷术) are the four great inventions of ancient China.

Let's talk about papermaking and printing today.

Papermaking dates back to very ancient times in China. Cai Lun of the Han Dynasty improved the papermaking process. He used silk, fibre, fishnets, and many other things to make paper. From the 3rd century onwards, people began to use paper for writing.

The Chinese people began to use woodblock printing as early as the 3rd century. Many years later, Bi Sheng invented a ceramic(陶质的) movable type of printing. Later, people used other movable types of printing such as wooden and metal types.
