Humans are going to the moon for the first time since the last Apollo Mission in 1972. SpaceX, a US space technology company, will send two people on a private trip around the moon. And they plan to make it happen in 2018.

The company didn't name the two people, how much they were paying. But they said that the mission (飞行任务) would use SpaceX's Falcon Heavy rocket and Dragon 2 spacecraft (宇宙飞船). Both of them are still in development.

"This flight would be for about a week, and it would travel past the surface of the moon, go quite a bit farther out into deep space and then return to Earth," SpaceX founder Elon Musk said.

Some experts say the plan is too bold. Mark Shelhamer is a National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA 美国宇航局) scientist. He said astronauts would need years of training to go to space.

"But sending two passengers to the moon in a new spacecraft on a new rocket, in less than two years? It won't happen." He added that getting to the moon is a lot harder than getting to the International Space Station.

Musk said there's risk. He says the spacecraft will run on autopilot (自动驾驶). And the two space tourists will receive hard training.

"There's some risk here," Musk said. "But we'll do everything we can to reduce that risk."

Do you know which social app Chinese young people use a lot now? "Short videos" are certainly the most popular. Some users use Tik Tok and Kuaishou. They think it is fun to share short videos about their lives, while others have other purposes as well.

A 12-year-old user called Elsa has about 2.7 million fans on Tik Tok. The girl has shared videos about her dancing studies since last July. One of the videos won her about one million fans. "I feel really glad to share happiness with people by short videos," said Elsa.

As some videos are about the latest news, a group of users depend on them to get information. To some other users, they have a different purpose. "Because I can't spend many hours watching a whole video and I'm not a very patient person. I don't like waiting for a program to end. I prefer to watch short videos of wonderful parts in program." said Wang Zhihao.

However, some young Chinese feel bored with some short videos. "Killing time is the main reason for me to watch the short videos, but many are almost the same, so I think it is a waste of time. What's more, I really don't like the videos which show odd even dangerous things." said Wen Nan, another college student.

Recently, something else has happened. Some videos are telling people what products are worth buying. But after they buy the products, they may regret soon. So they should think twice. Some short videos even sell bad products, but these sellers won't let you get your money back.

61. How does Elsa feel when she has more than one million fans?

II. 阅读判断 (10分)

Now satellites are helping us to forecast (预测) the weather. They are in space, and they can reach any part of the world. The satellites take pictures of atmosphere (大气). So the scientists there can see the weather of any part of the world and how the weather will change.

Today, nearly five hundred weather stations in sixty countries can receive satellite pictures. When they receive the new pictures, they compare (比较) them with the earlier ones. Perhaps they may find that the clouds have changed during the last few hours. This may mean that the weather on the ground may soon change, too. In their next weather forecast, they can tell people about it.

So the weather satellites are of great help to the scientists at the station. In the past they could forecast the weather for about 24 or 48 hours earlier. Now they can make good forecast for 3 or 5 days. Soon, perhaps, they may be able to forecast the weather for a week or more ahead.

根据短文内容, 判断下列句子的正 (A) 与误 (B), 并在答题卡的相应位置将其字母序号涂黑。

66. The weather satellites in space can help the scientists to know everything.
67. Changing clouds in the atmosphere means that weather may change.
68. Without satellites, scientists could forecast the weather for 3 or 5 days ahead.
69. Today, every country has its own weather station which can receive satellite pictures.
