Du Yibiao, 64, has patrolled (巡逻) the forests at Sanfengling Mountain in Hunan for 26 years.

Du began to work and live at the top of the mountain in 1996. He planted trees to make the mountain greener and healthier. He also tried to protect the forests from fire and stopped people from cutting down the trees. So far, he has written more than 4,000 diaries to record what happened in the mountain.

He was faced with many difficulties during these years. There were no roads in the mountain, so he had to use a machete (大砍刀) to cut grass to make a way. Cooking was also difficult, because there was no electricity or water. Du had to carry food to the top of the mountain every two weeks. However, the biggest challenge was the loneliness. "I have nobody to talk to," he said. "So I listen to the radio and sing songs every day."

"I'm a son of the mountain. I should be responsible for looking after it," said Du.

Recently, our government held an important meeting and announced a new important rule about further reducing students' homework and after-school training.

According to the meeting, one of the most clear problems of compulsory education is the heavy burden (负担) on primary and secondary school students. The main reason is that more and more parents send their children to after-school training schools for classes. So children have little free time to do the things they want to do. What's more, some off-campus training schools manage to lead students to join them to make more money.

For these, our country has developed a policy (政策) to change the situation of children. Schools must put the quality (质量) of school teaching into one of the first tasks. A teacher must teach his students what he should teach. Also, it is really necessary to reduce the students' homework and the pressure of exams. The meeting also pointed that the management of off-campus training schools should be fully controlled by rule.

Besides, schools must be encouraged and supported to carry out all kinds of after-school education activities to meet the needs of students and to make sure that every child receives a well-regulated education.

- () 67. What does the underlined word "compulsory" in Paragraph 2 mean?
A. 义务的 B. 额外的 C. 有益的 D. 可参考的
- () 68. What is one of the first tasks that schools must do?
A. Students' daily needs. B. Students' health and safety.
C. The school environment. D. The quality of school teaching.
- () 69. What can we infer from the text?
A. Students will study online at home.
B. The number of teachers will be increased.
C. Students will have much homework to do.
D. Students will have more time to do what they like.

Beijing 2022 Winter Olympics souvenirs (纪念品) have drawn much attention from collectors around the world, especially the beautiful pins. They have won high praise for the excellent patterns.

The Beijing Winter Olympics pins connect traditional Chinese culture with modern beauty. It's thought that the style of the countdown souvenir pin collection is really special and romantic. As for the 200-day countdown pin, the pattern features sakura (樱花) on the front and a snowflake on the back, showing how the Beijing 2022 Winter Olympics follows the Tokyo 2020 Summer Olympics.

If collectors get all pins in the countdown series, they can piece(拼合) them together in the shape of a big "0", which means the countdown is over and that the Winter Olympics is going to start.

Some limited (限量的) pins, such as a series of six inspired by ancient Chinese stories, quickly sold out. The series put Chinese fairy tales into the pattern, vividly showing the images of Pangu separating the sky from the earth, Jingwei filling up the sea, Chang'e flying to the moon, etc. Only 2,022 sets of the series were produced.

Other pin patterns include traditional games, for example, the ancient Chinese ball game, cuju. Ice play, an old sport in North China, is also shown on a single(单一的) pin. The ancient style of the pattern can be found in ancient paintings of the Ming and Qing dynasties.

As the host of the 2022 Winter Olympic Games, Beijing has told its own stories to the world through these colorful pins, created to welcome athletes and audience(观众) around the world.

- () 70. What can we find on the 200-day countdown pin?
- A. An ancient ball game. B. Sakura and a snowflake.
C. Jingwei filling up the sea. D. Chang'e flying to the moon.
- () 71. What's the meaning of piecing all pins together in the shape of a big "0"?
- A. Some limited pins. B. It's really special and romantic.
C. To draw much attention from collectors around the world.
D. The countdown finishes and that the Winter Olympics is going to start.
- () 72. What can we learn from the passage?
- A. There are pins with different patterns about ice play.
B. There are only 2,022 pins about ancient Chinese fairy tales.
C. The pins show both traditional culture and modern beauty.
D. All the pins are inspired by ancient paintings of different dynasties.

With a high score of 645 in the national college entrance examination, Xing Yifan has been accepted by his dream university—Beihang University.

It will take most high school students great effort(努力) to score that high. But the challenge for the 18-year-old boy was greater. He was born with CMD, a group of disorders characterized by muscle weakness and problems with the eyes and central nervous system.

With a strong will, Xing worked hard to make sure that the disease(疾病) would not hold him back. "I can't think of a reason to hold back. I want to become China's Stephen Hawking," said the boy.

Xing weighs only 18 kilograms. He has difficulty with many things that most people take for granted. He needs help anytime. Thankfully, his parents are always standing by him.

"Yifan is an angel who came to our family," his father said. "He might have broken wings, but we will never give him up."

"I just want to see how far I can go. I want to move forward more," said the boy.

Over the past few years, Xing has won many prizes. He is always an inspiration to his classmates. But the young boy has an inspiration of his own.

"I felt quite inspired when I read the story of British physicist Stephen Hawking," he said. "I will continue to study hard to university, and I hope I can be someone like him."

Effort can create miracles. The brave boy has interpreted(诠释) the power of optimism(乐观)

One possible version:

Food is very important to all of us. However, a lot of food is wasted every year. According to a report from the UN, most food waste happens at home. So, it's time for us to do something to change the situation.

First of all, we should make a plan before going shopping, which can prevent us from buying too much food. As we all know, some food can go bad easily. We'd better place it in the fridge. In this way, it will last longer and we can eat it up before it turns bad. If there are remaining ingredients and leftovers, use them up as soon as possible. With those old things, we can also try creating a new favorite dish. Last but not least, we can avoid food waste by eating up all the food on our plates and in our bowls.

Nobody likes wasting food, but nearly all of us do it. It is everyone's duty to pay attention to food waste and take action to fight against it.
