The only thing better than reading a good book is reading it with others. In a book club, a group people choose a book that everyone will read separately (分别) and then discuss together. Reading is not only something you enjoy by yourself. It is also a lot of fun to talk about what you are reading with friends.

There are no rules of starting a book club. It's good to think ahead about how you'd like the book club to run and when and where you will meet.

First, invite some friends to be your members. Think of eight to twelve people around your age. Perhaps encourage your friends to invite people who they know well but you haven't met. A book club can help you make friends.

Second, having a subject can make the club receive more attention. You might want to read fantasy stories or science fiction. A subject makes it easier to decide which books to read. If you take it in turns to choose the books you read, you might discover some great new books and authors, too.

Finally, make sure you read the book before the meeting. And then come to the meeting with questions to discuss.

Actions speak louder than words. Try to start a book club of your own.
