When faced with difficult situations in their lives, many people find them too challenging and give up, especially on their life dreams. But not for Gabriel Heredia.

Gabriel is a 21-year old Argentine barber(阿根廷理发师)who was born without hands. But he was able to grow up happily and independently because he always had the support of friends and family. In fact, his inspiration (灵感) for such work was his mother, who is a hairdresser. At the age of 14, he began to take interest in her work and learned all kinds of hair cutting skills from her. Although he first saw it as an interest, Gabriel quickly decided that this was his dream job.

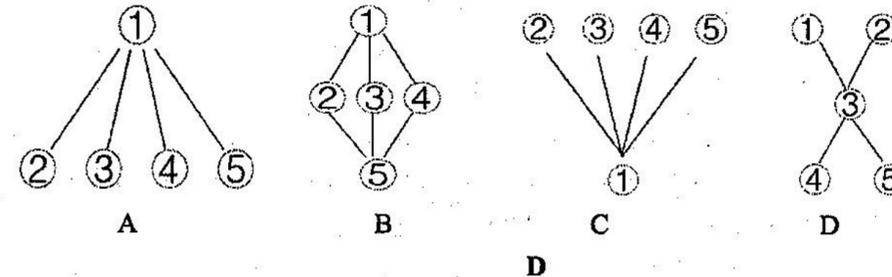

Gabriel's family soon helped him open his first barbershop in San Isidro, Peru, which he worked at for one and a half years. There, he met Zlatan Gomez, the president of Argentina Corta, an organization for barbers to connect, do charity(慈善) work, and teach hairdressing. Later Gabriel became part of Argentina Corta, offering his services to people of all ages so they can build up the skills they need to get a job.

Gabriel then moved to Buenos Aires, Argentina where he cuts hair today. As a bright and caring young man, Gabriel tries hard to not only be a barber, but also make a connection with the neighborhood. He says, "The thing that I like the most about my job is that people feel comfortable and stylish with my cuts and that makes me feel happy."

Gabriel always does his best to be independent. He never gives up. There is nothing he can't do. Besides cutting hair, he has learned to ride a bike, a motorbike and even to drive a car. He is no doubt inspiring others.

 - B. He can not only cut hair but also drive a car.
 - C. He joined Argentina Corta and taught others hair cutting skills in San Isidro.
 - D. He opened his first barbershop in Buenos Aires with the help of his family.

- () 55. What does the last paragraph mainly tell us?
- A. A good beginning makes a good ending.
 - B. You're never too old to learn.
 - C. Nothing is impossible if you don't give up.
 - D. Education changes life.
- () 56. What's the structure of the passage?

I'm David. When I was 13, my parents decided that I should go to England to improve my English. I had never been to other countries before, so I felt a little worried. My parents prepared everything for my journey. My plane was due (预期) to leave at 9:30 a.m. and arrive in two hours. I phoned the English family who I would stay with and they told me they would wait for me at the airport (机场).

Unluckily my plane to London was delayed (延误). I tried to phone the English family again but I couldn't speak to them because they had already left home for the airport.

When I arrived in London, it was already 1:30 p.m. I went to get my luggage (行李) but I couldn't find it. I became very worried. Luckily, the airport staff was very helpful and efficient (高效的). I didn't wait long — they found it 10 minutes later.

My English family were still waiting for me! I was so happy! Then my new life in London began. My English family were quite kind. I learned a lot of English because I spent most of the day talking in English. I played computer games with the little boy in my English family. I also taught him how to play chess. Sometimes I told him stories I learned from my family.

I missed my family during my stay in London, but I also felt sad when my stay there came to an end. My English family held a party for me. I enjoyed it very much. I'll never forget that summer in London! It is one of the most wonderful experiences I've ever had.

- () 57. What do we know about David?

B) 请先阅读下面短文, 掌握其大意, 然后根据短文内容从下面方框内的七个选项中, 选择五个还原到文中, 使短文意思通顺、结构完整。(每小题 2 分, 共 10 分)

Life is not perfect. It has never been and never will be. We often complain about (抱怨) the weather, the traffic, and the plants in our yard. We complain about difficult questions, lost(丢失的) keys, late planes. How might we begin to overcome the habit of complaining? 61 _____

Consider(考虑) the importance of accepting the change. 62 _____ But when given the choice(选择), most of us would prefer to give life rather than waste life with our words.

63 _____ Life is not always going to achieve what we would like (or even expect) at every turn. There will be trouble. Again, this is okay. And the sooner we can accept the fact that our contribution(贡献) is far more needed than our pleasure. Avoid beginning conversations with a complaint. Often, when we talk with a complaint, we'll begin to complain too. So, try not to begin conversations with a complaint. 64 _____

Notice your triggers(触发). 65 _____ Morning, evening, or late afternoon? When you are drinking coffee or having lunch with your friends? Maybe it is around the water cooler with your co-workers(同事). Take notice. Then, avoid triggers if possible.

Complaining achieves little purpose in our lives. We'd live happier without it. Moving forward, let's accept the actual instead.

- A. Please accept an imperfect world as possible as you can.
- B. Are you speaking to someone who can help solve the problem?
- C. Many of us complain only because we never considered there may be a better way.
- D. Is there a time period(阶段) of the day you want to complain more than others?
- E. It isn't enjoyable to spend time around people who often complain.
- F. Here are some useful steps to help you complain less.
- G. And try spreading some cheer with your opening line (开场白) instead.
