Volunteering helps others, but it can also help yourself, too. If you're upset(不安的) about something that happened like a storm or other disasters(灾害) — doing something about it can be a great way to deal with(应对) your feelings.

Volunteering also lets you see your own life in new ways. Sometimes it's easy to worry about things like grades or get angry because you don't have the most expensive gym shoes or the newest computer game. Volunteering lets you spend some time focusing on others for a while.

Lots of people — and kids — find that they really enjoy volunteering. Volunteer experiences often put you in a different environment and show you to people and situations(情形) that you wouldn't have come across in your life. For example, you might learn that just on the edge(边缘) of your town are some kids who really need winter clothes.

It feels good to be able to meet a need like that. You'll know that, thanks to you, some kids have warm coats, hats, gloves and boots. So whether it's winter clothes, food for the hungry, or a home for an unwanted pet, doing volunteer work means one very important thing: You make a difference in the world. So when do you start?

48. What should you do to deal with your feelings according to the passage if you're upset about something that has happened?

- A. Go away. B. Stay at home.
 C. Offer help. D. Talk with your parents

49. What do you think of volunteering according to the passage?

- A. It makes me see my own life in new ways. B. It makes me get angry.
 C. It makes me worry about my grades. D. It makes me feel upset.

50. What does the underlined word "unwanted" mean in the passage?

- A. 不受欢迎的 B. 空闲的 C. 有病的 D. 受伤的

51. Which of the following is the best title for this passage?

- A. Help yourself by helping others. B. Help yourself and help others.
 C. Help yourself or help others. D. How to deal with your feelings.

D

The morning of December 26th was warm and sunny on Phi Phi Don Island(岛) in Thailand. The sunshine was a welcome change from the wet, rainy weather at home. After breakfast, we went to the beach. My parents played volleyball and I ran straight into the clear water. I had great fun.

Suddenly, I heard a roar(咆哮). Then I saw a big wave(海浪). "Mark, run!" I heard my mom shout before the big wave came to me. In no time I was under the water. I tried to get out of the water, but I couldn't. Luckily, a hand pulled(拉) me up. I breathed and looked around. I was in a tree with a Thai man.

I was shocked and was not able to move. The only thing I could do was sit and watch. The hours passed slowly. Suddenly, both the Thai man and I saw a plane and we started shouting. The pilot(飞行员) saw us and came to save us. Half an hour later we were in the hills. A lot of people were there. I felt lonely and lost. Just then, my mom ran to me and said, "Mark, you're here." I was relieved(放心的) at that time. Two days later we left the island. We felt lucky to be alive(活着), but we were sorry for the people there who lost their homes.
