Mr. Smith gave his wife 100 dollars for her birthday—100 new dollar notes (纸币). The day after her birthday, Mrs. Smith went shopping. She waited for a bus, got on it and sat down next to an old woman. After a while, she found that the old woman's handbag was open. Inside of it, she saw some dollar notes just like the ones her husband had given her. She quickly looked into her own bag—the notes were gone! Mrs. Smith was sure that the old woman had stolen (偷) them. She thought for some time and decided to take back the money from the old woman's handbag and say nothing about it. She looked around the bus to make sure nobody was watching. Then she carefully put her hand into the old woman's bag, took the notes, and put them in her own bag.

When she got home that evening, she showed her husband the beautiful hat she had bought.

"How did you pay for it?" he asked.

"With the money you gave me for my birthday," she said.

"Oh? What's that, then?" he asked, as he pointed (指向) to the 100 dollar notes on the table.

These days, the Puy du Fou Park in Western France welcomed six very special cleaners—Boubou, Bamboo, Bill, Black, Bricole and Baco. They are six crows (乌鸦)! The crows give shows everyday. They pick up flowers and bring them to a "princess" in a castle.

Workers at the park have taught the crows to pick up small rubbish. The crows move the rubbish into a small box. After helping to clean the park, they get bird food for their hard work.

"The park is very clean," Nicolas de Villiers, the head of the park, said. "The crows are here to teach people to think about the environmental (环境的) problems."

As a visitor to the park, Simons, said after watching it, "OK! The birds can do something that we can do better than them. It shows that we humans cannot throw (扔) rubbish everywhere."

72. Why did the crows do cleaning jobs in the park?

- A. Because the park was not clean.
B. Because the park could pay the cleaners less.
C. Because they are the cleverest of all the birds.
