Dear Ms. Know,

I'm not happy, because I have too many rules. I must get up at 6:00 a.m. and have breakfast at home before going to school. I must wear school uniforms from Monday to Friday, but I really like to wear colorful clothes every day. After school, I can't play games with my friends because I must get home before 6:00 p.m. When I get home, I have to eat a quick dinner. After dinner, I must do my homework. And I can't watch TV on school days. I must go to bed early before 10:00 p.m. What can I do, Ms. Know?

Molly, New York

Dear Molly,

I know how you feel. I know there are too many rules for students. But think about it, to be an adult(成年人), there are also many rules for them. For example, your mother must make breakfast for you every morning. She just wants you to have a healthy life. When you get to school, your teacher is always there. However, there are lots of things you can do. You can go to a movie, watch TV and play sports with your friends on weekends. You can also wear what you like on weekends. Finally, remember, rules can always help us to live better. People need rules, and the world needs rules.

When you are reading something in English, you may often come across a new word. What's the best way to know it? You need an English-Chinese dictionary (字典). It will tell you a lot about the word, for example (例如), how to read this word, what it means in Chinese and how to use this word. But there are so many English words in the dictionary and how can you know where the word is? There is a way to look for it.

In the dictionary you can first see the words beginning with the letter A, then B, C, D, E... That means, if there are two words "desk" and "hour", "desk" is before "hour"; "story" "before" "Sunday". Then if there are two words both beginning with the same letter, you may look at the second letter, then the third, the fourth... It means that "tomato" is before "tomorrow".

The English-Chinese dictionary will be your good friend. I hope you will often use it in your English learning.

52. When you don't know a new word, according to the passage the best way is _____.
A. to ask your teacher      B. to guess
C. to ask your friends      D. to use a dictionary
