"It's time for Field Day again," thought Carly as she started the last week of school. Carly was not looking forward to it. "Why does everybody make a big deal out of it?" Carly asked her mom. "Well, it's supposed to be a fun day and a day to _____ 65 _____ yourself," said Carly's mom. "I'm not good at any of those games that are played, and I'm afraid the kids are going to laugh at me.

Maybe I can stay home and _____ 66 _____ Field Day," said Carly.

Mary was Carly's closest friend, and they walked to school every day.

"Aren't you _____ 67 _____ Field Day?" Mary asked Carly. "No, I don't care about such a silly day. No one ever picks me for their team because I'm not good at those games," answered Carly _____ 68 _____.

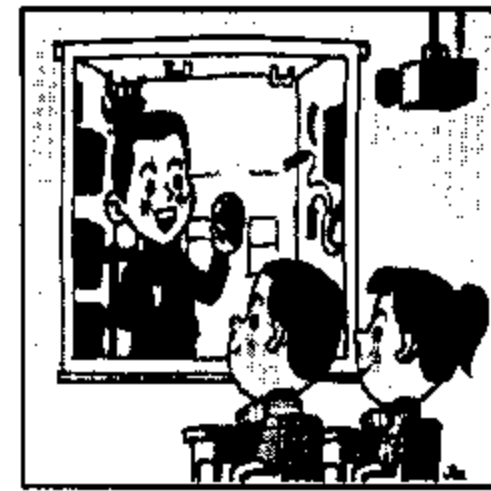

Mary felt bad and she told her mom how unexcited Carly was and wondered what she could do to cheer her friend up. "See if you can get in a game that you know Carly is good at," _____ 69 _____ Mary's mom. Mary thought for a moment and said that she knew Carly loved to play horseshoes, and was really good at that game. She was also good at the water balloon toss (投掷) too.

Field Day finally arrived. Mary came by Carly's house for their daily walk to school. Carly was very quiet on the way to school. "I hear they are going to have horseshoes this year and also a water balloon game," Mary said. "Really? I love horseshoes, and I am pretty good at catching those water balloons," said Carly. Suddenly, Carly felt more excited about going to school and starting Field Day than she had ever been.

The games began, and Carly had the best Field Day ever! _____ 70 _____ Carly, her team won first place in the water balloon toss, and she got a ribbon (绶带) for second place in horseshoes. "What a great day!" Carly said to Mary. Carly is now looking forward to Field Day next year!

On Dec 9, three Chinese astronauts who are working aboard the Tiangong Space Station, gave a lecture above Earth and showed millions of students their life there. They also did some fun s 71 experiments. Let's take a look at some of them.

Use it or lose it

The human body grows with the pull of Earth's gravity (重力). But in space, our bones and muscles don't need to s 72 our body's weight. This will cause bone and muscle loss. It is said that astronauts can lose up to 20 percent of their muscles after just a couple of weeks. That is dangerous for astronauts because they will be too w 73 to work.

Astronauts have different ways to prevent this. During the lecture, Zhai introduced a special uniform Ye was wearing. It's called a "penguin suit". It can keep their muscles strong.

Wang also showed students how she walked on a treadmill (跑步机) and rode a bicycle. Astronauts usually e 74 with these tools every day to keep their body strong.

Space water is different

During another experiment, Wang made a water film (膜). Then she added more water drops onto the film to make it a water ball. But this can n 75 happen on Earth. Why?

We need to first u 76 the surface tension (表面张力) of water. Surface tension is like a "skin" of water. The "skin" is there because water molecules (分子) are drawn to each other. One example on the Earth is that some bugs (昆虫) can "walk on water". Most of the time, gravity is too strong and it breaks the "skin". But with zero gravity in space, the "skin" stays much stronger and the water ball will not b 77.

Space water is different in many other ways from that on Earth. For example, water will not flow downward if you try to pour it into a cup. If astronauts cry, the tears will not fall down. They have to wipe them away!

D. Answer the questions (根据短文内容回答问题) (12 分)

Posted on 15 November, 2021 by Ken, Yunnan

I had a hair-raising moment while I was trail(小径) walking last month. I was overconfident, walking carelessly and not paying attention to the slippery path. (It had rain heavily the day before.) Suddenly I slipped and lost my balance. Below, there was a ravine—it was a long way downhill. I grabbed a tree branch fast and held on for dear life. Luckily, the instructor(教练) helped me swing myself back onto the trail. I was so relieved that I gave him a huge hug.

That happened while I was taking part in a five-day course in a mountain near our city. It was one of several projects that Outward Bound School runs for young people. Each day I did something new and exciting like climbing ropes. I was nervous at first because I had not climbed so high before, but the instructor encouraged me to try my best. As I climbed, I got less nervous and more determined. It was an unforgettable moment when I finally reached the top.

At night, we went camping on the wood. It was thrilling to be living on our own. The campsite, near a narrow stream had no electricity or tap water. We learnt about pitching tents and building campfires.

On the last day, my parents came to pick me up. I talked nonstop while I was giving them a tour of the school. My dad smiled warmly at me and said, "We are proud of you, Ken!"

Now I want to challenge myself again. My dream is to have a once-in-a-lifetime chance to spend a week at sea. I'm sure it will be an incredible journey. Unfortunately, I will have to wait till I'm eighteen.

78. When did Ken take a trail walk in the mountain?

79. Ken walked on a slippery path alone, didn't he?

80. How did Ken feel after the instructor encouraged him when he climbed ropes?

81. What did Ken learn when he and other young men in the campsite at night?

82. Why did Ken talk nonstop with his parents when they came to pick him up?

83. What do you think Ken was saying to his parents about his camp life? (At least two aspects(方向))

VII. Writing (作文) (本大题共 1 题, 共 20 分)

84. Write at least 60 words according to the given situation (根据以下情境写一篇不少于 60 个词的短文, 标点符号不占格)

实践类作业(Project-based homework)形式多样, 可以个人完成, 也可以小组合作完成; 可以是写书评(book review)、影评(film review); 也可以是完成调查报告(survey report)或海报制作(posters)等。学校正在为“最喜欢的寒假实践类作业”征询建议。假设你是李华, 请你在学校网站给张老师留言, 分享你的最喜欢的寒假实践类作业, 既可以是你完成过的, 也可以是你新的创意, 请简单描述实践过程并陈述分享理由。
