It is really wonderful news that the “double reduction” policy has been carried out. As middle school students, we need to make good use of our time. I'd like to share my ideas.

First of all, we are supposed to listen to the teachers carefully in class. It's a good habit to take notes. We also need to be active in class. When we think about and answer the teachers' questions, we can learn things better. Secondly, we should finish our homework on time. When we have any problem, we can ask our teachers or classmates for help. Thirdly, we should make good use of our free time. Now we have more time to relax ourselves. We can get into some good habits, such as reading books, doing sports. We also need spend some time doing housework. It's a good way to improve living skills.

All in all, if we can make good use of our school time and free time, we can live a happier life and learn better and easier.
