Xinjiang, a beautiful place in Northwest China, has recently caught the eye of the world. That's because Xinjiang is the key to China's Silk Road Economic Belt. The Silk Road was once a route between China and Europe. It covered about 6,500 kilometres. About 2,000 years ago, people in China, Central Asian countries and Europe traded along the route. The new Economic Belt is like the old Silk Road.

Xinjiang covers over half of the route. What is in this vast(辽阔的) and beautiful place? Let's go along the route and find out.

  Kashi	Kashi is the window of Xinjiang. It is next to Tajikistan, Afghanistan and Pakistan. China plans to build a railway from Kashi to Pakistan. In 10 years, Xinjiang will be connected to the Indian Ocean.
  Kuqa	Xinjiang is a land with beautiful singing and dancing. Kuqa is famous for a special style of music. People usually play the lute(琵琶) which became known in Chinese as pipa. The folk dance is also very cheerful. Dancers use almost every part of their bodies, especially the waist and the neck.
  Hami	Hami is an important town along the Silk Road in Xinjiang. You may know it because of the Hami melon. In fact, Xinjiang is home to many popular fruits, for example, grapes in Turpan and pears in Korla. The hot and dry conditions in Xinjiang help to grow sweet fruits.

40. How long was the old Silk Road?

- A. It was about 2,000 kilometres long.
- B. It was 3,000 kilometres long.
- C. It was over 1,500 kilometres long.

42. What's the writer's suggestion for travelling in Hami?

- A. On foot.
- B. By plane.
- C. By train.
- D. Riding a camel.

C

A young painter lived in a small narrow house, living on painting portraits before he became famous.

One day, a rich man came by and found the painter's painting so carefully that he liked it and asked him to draw a portrait. They agreed on the fee of 10,000 dollars.

After a week, the portrait was done. The rich man came to take the painting as agreed on. At this moment, the rich man came up with an evil idea of bullying (欺负) the unknown young artist, so he refused to pay him. The rich man thought to himself, "the man in the painting is me. If I do not buy it, no one will do that. Why should I pay so much money for it?" So the rich man said, "You will only get 3,000 dollars."

The young artist was surprised, for he had never come across such things. He stuck to the former price. "If you break your words today and someday you must pay 20 times!"

After the stimulation (刺激) of such an incident, the painter moved out of this sad place, worked hard night and day. Years later, he finally started a new way and became popular.

Then things became funny. One painting titled Thief appeared. Some friends said to the rich man, "We all saw the painting which is marked 200,000 dollars. But why does the man in the painting look exactly the same as you?"

The rich man knew the reason without a second thought. He went to the young painter immediately. As expected, Thief was just the portrait of himself years ago. He quickly apologized to the artist and paid 200,000 dollars for it.

With an undefeated ambition, the young painter made the rich man bend his head. This young man was Pablo Picasso.

43. Why did the rich man change his mind to pay only 3,000 dollars?

- A. Because nobody else would buy the painting except him.
- B. Because the painting was just worth that price.
- C. Because he wanted to bully the young man with no fame.
- D. Because he was short of money at that time.

44. What does the underlined word portraits in Paragraph 1 mean?

- A. 图画
- B. 照片
- C. 肖像
- D. 水彩

45. How much did the rich man pay Picasso at last?

- A. $3,000.
- B. $30,000.
- C. $20,000.
- D. $200,000.

46. We can learn from the passage that the young painter_____.

- A. gave up his dream at last.
- B. finally made his word come true.
- C. painted another painting in memory of the rich man.
- D. changed his name many years later.

Everyone knows that octopuses have eight arms. But do you know that some octopuses are poisonous or that some can use tools? Here are some awesome things about these amazing creatures.

★ They eat their arms.

Compared with octopuses living in containers full of interesting decorations like shells, octopuses living in tougher environments become pretty stressed out. Some even turn to a disturbing behavior known as autophagy(自体吞噬). That is what is described as “eating its own arms”.

★ They pack poison.

Some octopuses are thought to have some poison that comes from bacteria living inside the animals. Most don't have enough poison to harm people. But a bite from a small blue ringed octopus can paralyze (使...麻痹) a human adult in minutes.

★ They use tools.

Yes, like chimpanzees, dolphins and crows, octopuses are among the special set of intelligent animals that have been observed using tools. Scientists have watched octopuses picking up empty coconut shells (椰子壳) and using them like mobile homes. “I never expected to find an octopus that collects several coconut shells and jogs across the seafloor carrying them,” said a scientist.

★ They're masters of camouflage (伪装).

An octopus can change the color of its whole body in just a second. And the creature doesn't simply take on the general pattern of its surroundings. Instead, it often mimics (模仿) specific undersea objects, like plants or rocks, to disappear into the underwater scenery.

★ They're playful.

True, humans always project their own qualities on the rest of the animal world. But evidence suggests octopuses are very curious and need stimulation. They might even engage in what humans would call “play”. For example, a scientist once saw that an octopus pushed a plastic bottle over and over again at a stream of water flowing into its tank — almost like it was bouncing a ball underwater.

47. What is the act “eating its own arms” called?

- A. Autophagy. B. Octopus. C. Disturbing behavior. D. Decorations.

48. We can infer (推断) from Paragraph 3 that _____.

- A. none of the octopuses are poisonous
B. bacteria lives inside the animals
C. if small blue ringed octopus bite an adult, he can be paralyzed very soon
D. octopuses can pick up empty coconut shells and use them like mobile homes

49. Where can we read this article?

- A. In the story book. B. In the guide program.
C. In the medical magazine. D. In the science news.

50. Which of the following sentences is NOT TRUE according to the passage?

- A. Octopuses can change the color of its whole body very quickly.
B. Octopuses can disappear into the underwater scenery by mimicing objects nearby.
C. Octopuses are very curious and need stimulation.
D. Octopuses like pushing plastic bottles over and over again at a stream of water.

第二节 根据短文内容，从短文后的方框中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项，并在答题纸上将该项涂黑。(共 5 小题；每小题 2 分，满分 10 分)

In Singapore, primary (小学的) and high school students take outdoor-skill courses as part of their studies. They are usually three to five days long and include rope and rock climbing, going to sea in a small boat, sleeping in a tent at night, taking long walks in the forest, and learning to make a fire. _____ 51 _____ Are those outdoor skills really important?

Minister of Education (教育部部长) Ng Chee Meng says that the outdoor-skill courses help students develop skills like critical thinking (批判性思维), teamwork, and good communication-abilities that are necessary for work and life. _____ 52 _____ Students need to learn from books, but for some lessons, reading isn't as useful as doing.

What do the students think? Angelique, a student from Singapore, went for a boat trip in the sea. "It helped me to grow stronger," she says. _____ 53 _____ There were moments when she felt afraid and hopeless. But she remembered that "smooth seas never made a skilled sailor" and felt brave enough to continue against the storm. _____ 54 _____

Right now, students attend the courses with groups from their own school. Next year, however, all the students will do the courses in groups from several different schools. Why does this matter? _____ 55 _____ Working closely with students from other backgrounds is a great way to learn this lesson.

One student said it this way, "There is nothing to be afraid of and nothing's impossible. " And that's a great lesson to learn.

- A. She was nervous because it was stormy that day.
 - B. She is thankful for this amazing chance.
 - C. He believes that these skills are as important as traditional subjects.
 - D. Good communication skills are more important now than ever.
 - E. One careless mistake could make someone really get hurt.

[1] As is known to all, the earth is having trouble burdening so large a population. Will we have another place to live and work in the future? Maybe on Mars(火星)? Many scientists think so. In fact, they are already working on plans to turn Mars into a new earth.

[2] Humans need three basic things to live: water to drink, air to (74) ① and food to eat. Because of the shortage of those above, it is impossible to live on Mars right now. Then how can we make Mars a right place for humans to live on? The answer is to change its environment similar to Earth's.

[3] On Mars, the (74) ② is about -60°C . So one of the main purposes is to warm it up. One idea for warming Mars comes from a problem here on the earth — climate change. Most scientists agree that Earth is becoming warmer because of increased levels of greenhouse gases(温室效应气体) in our atmosphere. (75) We might create similar conditions on Mars by building factories that give off greenhouse gases. The gas will change the atmosphere on Mars. Rain will fall, and it may be possible to grow plants for food. There will be many difficulties (74) ③ changing Mars. The program could take many centuries, and the cost will be high. We have some of the technology, such as the ability to create greenhouse gases, but not the money. Anyway, living on Mars is a real possibility for future people.

71. Which plans are scientists working on? (No more than 8 words)

72. How can we make Mars a suitable place for humans to live on? (Within 7 words)

73. Why is Earth become warmer? (No more than 7 words)

74. Fill in each blank in the passage with a proper word.

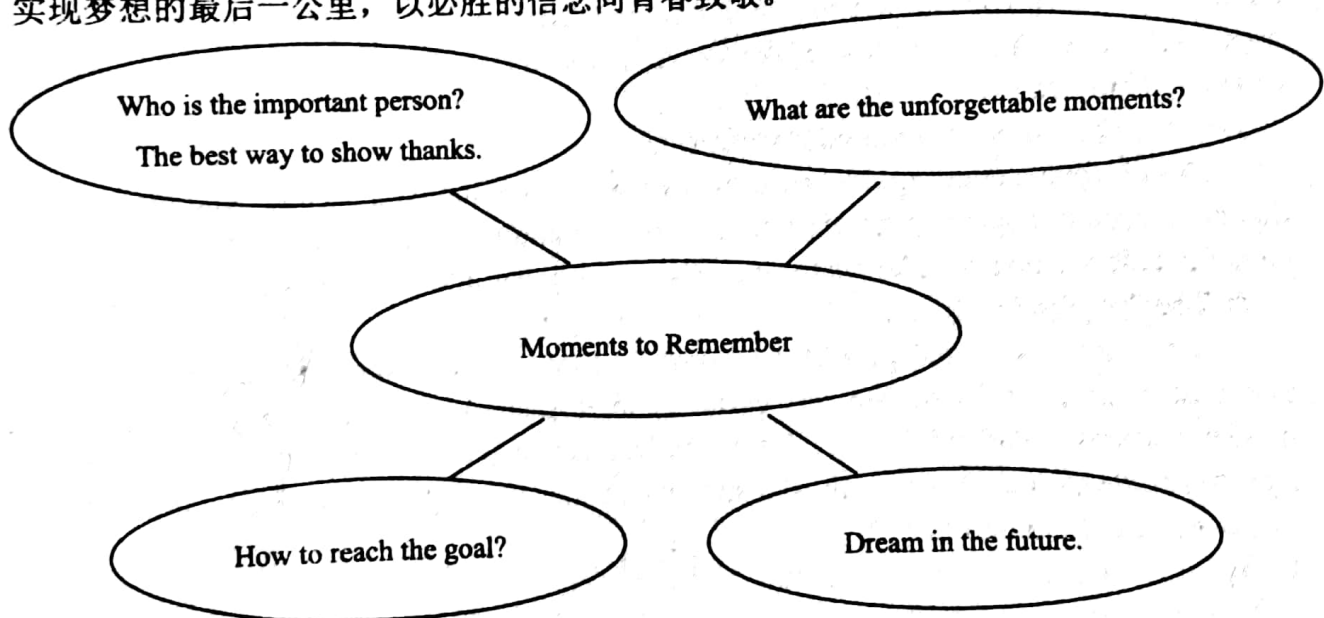

① _____ ② _____ ③ _____

75. Translate the underlined sentence in the third paragraph into Chinese.

76. Do you think humans will live on Mars in the future? Why? (The answer would be open)
