B

I usually took a bus to school. I found that most passengers were silent and never had a conversation with anyone else.

About a year ago, an old man got on the bus and said loudly to the driver, "Good morning!" Most people looked up, wondering why, and the bus driver didn't take it seriously and just replied in a cold voice, "Mm-hmm". The next day, the man got on and again he said in a loud voice, "Good morning!" to the driver. Another "Mm-hmm". By the fifth day, the driver finally answered him with a little happy "Good morning!". Then the man said, "My name is Benny." The driver told the man that he was Sam.

That was the first time any of us had heard the driver's name and soon people began to talk to each other and say hello to Sam and Benny. Soon Benny spread his happy "Good morning!" to the whole bus. Within a few days, his "Good morning!" was returned by a lot of "Good morning!" and the whole bus seemed to be friendlier. People got to know each other.

"Benny truly showed friendship among us with a simple 'Good morning!'," I thought.

Then suddenly, Benny stopped showing up. Everyone began to ask about Benny, wondering what happened to him. No one knew what to do and the bus got quiet again. So, last week, I started to act like Benny and say "Good morning!" to everyone and the whole bus cheered up again. Hopefully, Benny could come back to see his "Good morning!" mattered a lot.

Sometimes we see some strangers so many times that we know their faces well, but we never even say hello to them. By saying hello, friendship starts to grow, and sunshine comes to the world around us, and love spreads over the community we are in. Why not start a “hello” today?

54. At first, passengers were _____ on the bus.
A. friendly B. strict C. quiet D. strange
55. With the first “Mm-hmm”, the driver _____.
A. didn’t care about Benny’s “Good morning!” B. wanted to know more about Benny
C. was happy with Benny’s action D. remembered Benny at once
56. Why did the writer start to act like Benny?
A. Because he thought what Benny did was interesting.
B. Because he wanted to cheer up the whole bus again.
C. Because Benny asked him to say “Good morning!”.
D. Because he liked to make friends with strangers.

C

It is necessary for students to learn some team skills like developing relationships, communicating well with others and solving problems. Here are two fun team activities.

Activity 1: Water Relay (接力赛)

Tools

- Two large buckets (水桶) to hold water
- One small bucket for each team member

Instructions

- Fill one large bucket with water.
- Make holes in the bottom of the small buckets.
- Have the team members line up between the two large buckets.
- Pass the water from one large bucket to the other, using small buckets. Try to keep as much water as possible.

Why It’s Fun

- It’s fun to workout away to lose as little water as possible.
- It’s water. Isn’t it fun to get you wet on a hot summer day?

Activity 2: Truth and Lie

This activity will allow team members to learn about each other.

Instructions

- Have each team member think of three pieces of information about themselves, and one of them is a lie.
- Each team member tells the group all the three pieces of information. Let the other team members guess which is the lie.

Why It’s Fun

- Students love talking about themselves and this gives them the chance to do so.
- Members can learn about each other.
- Members will be surprised at what others think of them.

57. How many team skills does the writer mention (提及) in Paragraph 1?
 A. Five. B. Three. C. Two. D. One.
58. What tools are needed for each member in Water Relay?
 A. Two small buckets. B. One small bucket.
 C. Two large buckets. D. One large bucket.
59. In order to win Water Relay, what should the team members do?

60. It is fun to play Truth and Lie because team members can _____.
 A. learn all the information about others B. tell lies to surprise others
 C. share love with each other D. talk about themselves

D

“Bing Dwen Dwen” and “Shuey Rhon Rhon” are the mascots (吉祥物) for the 2022 Beijing Winter Olympic Games and the Paralympics (残奥会). Here are their self-introductions.

 Bing Dwen Dwen	Hi! I'm Bing Dwen Dwen. I have a cartoon image (形象) of a panda wearing a spacesuit, which looks like a winter sports athlete from the future. “Bing” means “ice” in Chinese, which is a symbol of winter sports. “Dwen Dwen” suggests health and shows the spirit of the Olympics, including a strong mind and a healthy body.
 Shuey Rhon Rhon	Hello! My name is Shuey Rhon Rhon. I look like a red lantern, just like the lanterns hanging on homes and streets to celebrate Chinese New Year. On my head are paper cuts of pigeons. “Shuey” means “snow” in Chinese. “Rhon Rhon” are two different Chinese characters with the same pronunciation. Shuey Rhon Rhon symbolizes communication among different cultures.

The idea behind these two mascots is to connect traditional Chinese culture with the Games. The panda is designed with its modem appearance to show our great expectations for the Games and our welcome to the whole world. The vivid red image of “Rhon Rhon” reminds people of the celebration of China's Spring Festival.

61. “Bing Dwen Dwen” is a cartoon image of _____.
 A. a panda B. a pigeon C. a lantern D. a spacesuit
62. What does “Dwen Dwen” show?
 A. The cool spacesuit. B. The same pronunciation.
 C. The different characters. D. The spirit of the Olympics.
63. What does the mascot “Shuey Rhon Rhon” symbolize?
 A. The strong mind of all athletes. B. Athletes from different cultures.
 C. The friendliness of the Olympics. D. Communication among different cultures.
64. The idea behind the two mascots is to _____.
 A. stress the importance of health B. show traditional Chinese culture
 C. celebrate China's Spring Festival D. introduce ways of communication
65. Where can you probably find this article?
 A. An advertisement. B. A storybook. C. A sports magazine. D. A science book.

IX. 任务型阅读 (共 5 小题, 每小题 2 分, 计 10 分)

阅读下面短文, 根据要求完成 66—70 题。

Exams are a fact of school life for most people. Almost everyone worries about them and feels stressed. A little stress caused by the exams is useful. But too much stress can stop you working to the best of your abilities, so it's important not to let it get out of control. Here are some ideas to help you deal with exam stress.

The keys to being prepared for exams and avoiding unnecessary exam stress are knowing what you need to know, planning and preparing for your revision, and giving yourself enough time to do it.

Make a week-by-week revision timetable chart to display (陈列) in your work space. Include the topics you need to cover for each subject.

About 12 weeks before your first exam, record the dates and times for each of your exams in your planner or diary and make a copy to put on your wall at home.

During your exam period, you want your brain to work at its very best, so build in relaxation time before bed, avoid late night revision and try to go to bed early so you get enough sleep. If you have difficulty answering a question, leave it and move on to the next one. Don't spend time considering how to answer them too long.

You are not alone while dealing with the stress. Call psychological (心理的) hotline to share your worries and get help from others going through the same experience. Remember that there is life after exams. Things may feel stressful right now, but it won't last forever. And then the rest of your life will still be there.
