It might be fun to use your smartphone, but be careful. Too much screen time may be harmful to your health.

First, it is bad for your eyes. A researcher called Sarah Hinkley says the problem comes from the blue light that the screen gives out. Looking at a smartphone for a long time can cause eye strain (劳损), headaches and dry eyes. So it is a good idea to take a break every 15 minutes when you are working at a computer or using a smartphone.

Second, screen use can do harm to children's brains. A new study shows that using screens too much can affect (影响) how children's brains grow. If children use screens for more than one hour a day, they might have lower levels of white matter in their brains. White matter is a key to the development of language and reading skills. So it is wise to cut down the time of children using all kinds of screens.

Third, using screens too much will affect your sleep. According to a study, about 95% of the people between the ages of 13 and 64 use electronics before bed, especially the young people under 20. Doctors say that the light from those electronics at night may make you excited before you go to bed. Then it's hard for you to get enough sleep. So you'd better turn off smartphones, TVs, and all other screens an hour before your bedtime.

To keep healthy, doctors and researchers strongly advise that you shouldn't use screens for long hours.

61. The blue light from your screens can cause some matters except _____.
 A. eye strain B. sore throat C. dry eyes D. headaches
62. Why can't you sleep well according to the passage?
 A. Because you are the people from 13 to 64.
 B. Because you take a break every 15 minutes.
 C. Because you have lower levels of white matter.
 D. Because you use screens too much before bed.

63. Which of the following is NOT true according to the passage?

- A. People of all ages use electronics before sleep.
 B. A lot of screen time affects children's brain growth.
 C. Using smartphones for long hours does harm to your eyes.
 D. The light from electronics at night may make you excited.

64. Who likes to use electronics before bed best?

- A. The people who are 20 years old. B. The people who are under 20 years old.
 C. The people who are 30 years old. D. The people who are 64 years old.

65. What does the passage mainly talk about?

- A. The ways to keep healthy. B. The advantages of using screens.
 C. The ways of use screens. D. The harm of using screens too much.

C

On July 23, a small village in Leiyang, Hunan province, lighted fireworks (点烟花) to celebrate Zhong Fangrong, an 18-year-old girl who scored 676 in this year's Gaokao. With such a good score, the girl was admitted (录取) to Peking University. And then, Zhong made a decision: She was going to study archaeology (考古学).

The decision gave rise to a hot discussion online. "You are wasting your only chance to change your future," some people thought. "Archaeology is so unpopular! Can you find a good job in the future? How can you make lots of money for your family?"

Zhong comes from a poor family. Her parents had to work far away from home when she was young. As a "left-behind child", Zhong was sent to her grandparents, and has started boarding since Grade 6.

Zhong's dream is to study archaeology. She won't easily give it up. Her decision received wide support. Fan Jinshi, a famous Chinese archaeologist wrote a letter to Zhong, in which she wrote, "Stay true to your heart and aspirations (抱负), and stay focused." Zhong quickly replied to her idol (偶像), "I hope to follow in your footsteps, devote myself to archaeology, and find rest for my soul."

We all have dreams. Chase your dreams, even though you may not get everyone's support!

66. Why did the small village lighted fireworks?

- A. To move to new houses.
 B. To visit Peking University.
 C. To celebrate Zhong's decision to study archaeology.
 D. To celebrate Zhong's good scores in this year's Gaokao.

67. What can you know from the passage?

- A. Zhong's family is very rich.
 B. All the people supported Zhong's decision.
 C. Some people thought Zhong could make lots of money.
 D. Some people thought Zhong couldn't change her future.

68. Fan Jinshi wrote to Zhong Fangrong to _____.

七、阅读理解(二)(每小题 2 分, 共 10 分)

阅读下面短文, 根据短文内容回答问题。

Once there were many thousands of Gourma Desert (沙漠) elephants in Mali, a country in West Africa. Now, there are fewer than four hundred. Do you know their situation?

Why did the number of the elephants drop so quickly? On the one hand, the elephants' main lake, their only water source (来源), dried up. On the other hand, the land which the elephants lived on was overused by humans.

To protect the elephants' living environment, the Mali Elephant Project (MEP) was started in 2007. MEP met with local people and helped them make rules of using land and water. As a result, the situation became better and there was more food, forest and grassland.

However, from 2012 to 2016, poaching (偷猎) and illegal (非法的) trade in the elephants increased rapidly. Eighty-three elephants were lost in 2015 alone, and another fifty-one elephants were killed in 2016. "If this situation goes on, all the Gourma elephants will be killed by 2020," said a member of MEP.

Luckily, the voice of MEP was heard. More organizations (组织) have joined together to educate the local people that trading elephants is against the law. Elephant poaching has dropped to a very low level. The local people have learned to live peacefully with the elephants, one of the wildlife treasures in the world.

86. How many reasons made the number of the elephants drop so quickly?

87. Why did the people set up MEP?

88. When were Eighty-three elephants lost?

89. Can the local people finally live with the elephants peacefully?

90. What's the passage mainly about?
