	January 28 My son got this for his 7th birthday three days ago. And he has played with it over and over again.
Carmen
	February 7 I bought it for my 11-year-old son. He loved this one. My son spent an hour assembling (组装) the truck and he found it easy to follow the instructions.
Marcus
	April 9 I was a big fan of LEGO as a kid, and my two-year-old son loves it. I put this together while he was sleeping. The design is really clever.
Kevin
	December 29 The instructions are easy to follow and this is a very cool fire truck. My daughter enjoys breaking pieces apart and rebuilding them into new things with her imagination.
Carla

Hello, ladies and gentlemen. May I have your attention for a while? Here we've arrived at the Danubius Regents Park. It's a 4-star hotel. A great one. Right? I hope you will enjoy your staying here. Just now Mrs King asked me if there is Wi-Fi available here. Sure! Wi-Fi here is available in EVERY room. Now please check your phones and make sure that you have received the schedule (时间表) I sent you last night. If you haven't got the schedule, it doesn't matter. You'll find a copy of your weekend's schedule in your room. Or you can send me a message and I'll send it to your phone again. Take a look at it, and make sure you're clear about everything. I hope I've given you a clear idea of the schedule for your London weekend. If you have any question, call me at anytime. And, before I finish, let me just give you some advice which should make your stay more enjoyable.

Firstly, please do remember to put on some comfortable shoes. London is a big place, and whatever you do, you'll find yourself doing quite a lot of walking. So, comfortable shoes are really necessary. And secondly, let me ask you to please look after your money. Keep it safe at all times, and then you will not have any unpleasant accident, which could turn your whole weekend terrible. Well, that's all from me for now. Go and leave your luggage (行李) in your rooms. I'll be seeing you here again in fifteen minutes. Good-bye for now!

- ( ) 24. What has been put in the room?
A. Some money.
B. A phone with the schedule.
C. The luggage.
D. A copy of the schedule.
- ( ) 25. Where probably are the speaker and the listeners?
A. Outside a park.
B. Inside a hotel.
C. In a shopping centre.
D. At the airport.
- ( ) 26. What will the listeners do in a quarter?
A. Meet the speaker.
B. Go to their rooms.
C. Change some money.
D. Go to have a meal.
- ( ) 27. What's the speaker?
A. A head teacher.
B. A postman.
C. A tour guide.
D. An office assistant.

When it comes to Chinese cartoon films, which film first comes to mind? "Big Fish & Begonia", or "Ne Zha"? They are both about Chinese mythology (神话). But "I Am What I Am" is not. What makes it different is the film setting eyes on the real life. It centers on an old Chinese folk art — the lion dance.

The film shows three stay-at-home children from a poor village in Guangdong. The story follows a boy named A'juan and two of his close friends as they overcome difficulties in following their dreams—to become the best lion dance performers. Sun Haipeng lived in Guangdong for over 10 years and became interested in the lion dance there. Also, he once saw a lion dance performance when he was on vacation abroad. "The performance was exciting and powerful. At the moment, I took great pride in our national culture," Sun said. As a filmmaker, Sun decided to bring this to the big screen. But it was not easy. Technically speaking, the biggest problem lay in how to show the moves of the head of the lion through special effects (特效), Sun said. The production team bought many lion heads to study, recording the movements of the hair. They then spent several months designing (设计) each hair on the lion's head to make it look real. The music of the film is in the Guangdong style and uses Cantonese. Bands from Guangdong, like Wu Tiao Ren and Jiu Lian Zhen Ren made music for the film. People can see the story of the children trying to realize their dreams while feeling the beauty of the traditional lion dance.

第二节 语法填空 (共10个小题, 每题1.5分, 共15分)

阅读下面短文, 在空白处填入1个适当的单词或括号内单词的正确形式。

This is a great time to be young in China. Now young people in this country can see a future where the sky is the limit(界限). All this is because of a(n) (71) decision (decide) that was made in Beijing more than forty years ago.

On December 18, 1978, China's leaders decided on the "reform and opening up" policy(“改革开放”政策). Back then, most Chinese people lived (72) a very poor life. They sometimes worried about not having enough food to eat. The Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping believed (73) that "opening up" to foreign ideas and foreign businesses would improve people's lives. And he was right.

Today, China is on its way to becoming one of (74) the (strong) countries in the world. The Belt and Road Initiative(“一带一路”倡议) is helping other countries to develop better. And (75) hundreds (hundred) of foreign businesses were welcome to show and sell their products at the 2021 China International Import Expo(中国国际进口博览会).

China's travel and education have opened up, too. In 1978, only a few hundred Chinese people traveled or studied abroad. However, in 2018, the number increased (76) quickly (quick). There were more than 145 million foreign trips made by Chinese tourists, and over 600,000 Chinese students went abroad (77) to (get) a further education that year.

The "opening up" policy has also made China a world leader in some areas, such (78) as technology and medicine. They (79) are expected (expect) to grow further and provide more job opportunities(机会) for young people in the future.

To be honest, the "future" (80) has begun (begin) over forty years ago with the "opening up" policy. That future is still opening up today. Look forward and make good use of all the great opportunities!

Painted with a black high-heeled shoe on a pink background, wide parking spaces for women have caused discussion on social media (社交媒体). The parking spaces in the Jiande and Tonglu highway service areas (公路服务区) in Zhejiang province are 1.5 times the size of normal spaces, with the color and picture meaning "women only".

According to a survey on Sina Weibo, 63% of 1,700 who took part in it said it was a thoughtful idea to design the women-only parking spaces. "They are very big, and I find it a very considerate idea," said Yang Xin, a woman driver who recently got her driver's license. However, the others thought this was a kind of sexism (性别歧视). It seemed that women were bad drivers. "Parking depends on driving skills, not gender (性别)," said a user called "Youyouzizi".

Fang Hongying, manager of the Jiande highway service area, said the women-only parking spaces were first introduced in October, and driving skills were only a small part of the reasons. "The women's parking spaces are closer to the way out, which is more convenient for women drivers to take a break or go shopping in the main building, and much safer, especially at night. It just wants to show concern (关心) for women in need," she said. Chen Jianguo, from North China Electric Power University, said, "If it could be called a parking space for new drivers, the opinions about sexism can be avoided."

All in all, a number of ways to protect the women's safety have appeared in China in recent years. They do make a difference.

- ( ) 32. What color are the women-only parking spaces painted?
A. Pink and blue. B. Black and pink. C. Blue and red. D. Red and black.
- ( ) 33. What does the underlined word "considerate" mean in Chinese?
A. 充满争议的 B. 考虑周到的 C. 独一无二的 D. 毫无意义的
- ( ) 34. What can we know from the words of Fang Hongying?
A. The driving skill is the main reason for the women-only parking spaces.
B. All the women drivers enjoy shopping.
C. The parking spaces closer to the way out are much safer.
D. The women-only parking spaces are available only at night.
- ( ) 35. What does the passage mainly talk about?
A. New things in Zhejiang province.
B. The most famous social media in China.
C. The women-only parking spaces in Zhejiang.
D. Women drivers in China.
