May is a nice month full of sunshine and flowers. It is also the 36 when we show thanks on the second Sunday--Mother's Day.

In my family, the celebration (庆祝) on Mother's Day is 37 every year. Two years ago, I made 38 for my mom in bed and I still remembered the dishes I cooked that morning. Last year, I bought her a selfiestick (自拍杆) with the money I made by 39 some of my old books.

This May, I wanted to do something special. In late 40, I started to search for (搜索) gift ideas online (在线地). At last, I got an idea. First I made a box with colourful cards by hand. Then I put a small bag of 41 in the box. Of course I wrote some messages (信息) on the cards, they were all small jobs I could do for my mom at home, like 42 and washing clothes.

On Mother's Day Eve, I went into mom's room and put the gift on her bed quietly. 43 she went to sleep. Next morning when she found it, she was very 44 to look at the box and tried the sweets inside (里面).

Mother's Day is a happy time for me to 45 my mom and show her my love because she takes good care of me.

Today is Saturday, May 8. The weather is warm and sunny. There are ten young volunteers (志愿者) at the Old People's Center in the neighborhood. They're teaching old people to use smartphones (手机). To help more people, they will come here again next Saturday.

Smartphones are important in our lives, but lots of old people can't use them well. "I always forget how to pay for my things. I have no one to ask when my daughter is not with me," says Grandma Li.

Some old people don't know how to send a message (发信息) or call a car on the phone. Because of COVID-19, old people have more problems. When they go to parks or supermarkets, they have to show their health codes (健康码). The workers need to tell some old people what to do. And they get impatient sometimes when old people can't learn it quickly. This makes old people feel bad.

"I think smartphones can bring old people a happy life. It is a good thing to help old people around us," says Zhang Wei, one of the volunteers.

At night, you fall asleep while listening to sweet music. In the morning, you are woken up by the singing of birds outside. You can enjoy all of these things because of one important organ (器官) -- the ears.

How do the ears work? The ear has three different parts: the outer ear, the middle ear, and the inner ear. The outer ear collects (收集) sound around you. The sound then travels down to the middle ear, the inner ear and then to your brain (大脑).

But ears do more than hear (听). They help you keep your balance (平衡), too. In the inner ear, there are organs with lots of liquid (液体). When you move your head, the liquid moves, too. They send messages to your brain.

More surprisingly (惊讶), ears even help with tasting (品尝) food. The middle ear connects (连接) the tongue to the brain. If something is wrong with your ears, you will find it hard to tell how food tastes.

The ears are really important organs with many functions (功能). Everyone should look after their ears well.

- ( ) 61. How many functions of ears are mentioned (提到) in this passage?
A. Two.                      B. Three.                      C. Four.                      D. Five.

A. The middle ear collects sound around us.
B. The inner ear connects the tongue to the brain.
C. Our ears can help us taste food.
D. When we move our heads, the liquid in the outer ear also moves.
- ( ) 63. Which of the following shows the structure (结构) of the passage?
A.                       B.                       C.                       D.
- ( ) 64. What's the main idea of this passage?
A. Show how the ears work to make us hear
B. People use the ears to enjoy different things.
C. Introduce (介绍) our organ --- the ears.
D. Tell people how the ears taste food.

( ) 65. If we add another paragraph(再加一段) at the end(末尾) of the passage, what is it about?

- A. ask everyone to look after their ears B. tell how ears help us keep balance
C. introduce other important organs D. share the ways about how to look after the ears
