Tiangong Class

How do astronauts live and work on a space station? You can get the answer from the Tiangong Class, a series of lectures from China's space station. In the Tiangong Class, Chinese astronauts will become the "teachers in space". Months ago, three Shenzhou-13 astronauts, Wang Yaping, Ye Guangfu and Zhai Zhigang, gave their first class. Thousands of young students took the class.

Wang Yaping and the other two astronauts first gave the students a tour around. They showed students how to live and work on the space station. After the tour, the astronauts did some interesting experiments. In one experiment, Wang made a small water film and put a pink folded paper flower on it. Soon the flower blossomed. "I made the flower with my daughter while on the earth and I always think of her when I see the flower," said Wang. "Students, all of you are flowers of the motherland. I hope your dreams can blossom like flowers."

During the class, the students learned how different space is from the earth. Many students showed great interest in space and science. Wang Yihan, a fifth-grade student, said, "It was an eye-opening experience. The experiments really surprised me. They were wonderful! I want to be an astronaut too!"

44. From the Tiangong Class, we can learn _____.

The Metaverse Is Having a Moment

Last October, CEO Mark Zuckerberg changed his company's name from Facebook to Meta. He said the metaverse was not only the future of his company, but also the future of the Internet. His words sent lots of people running to look up the word "metaverse" in their dictionaries.

The thing is, the word isn't new. It comes from Snow Crash, a 1992 science-fiction book by American writer Neal Stephenson. In the book, humans live through their avatars in a virtual world called the metaverse. Today the metaverse is still being created and understood and not everyone agrees on how it should come about. However, we are starting to get some idea as tech companies have begun to build it. The metaverse is believed to be a shared 3-D virtual world and now we can do real-life things like meeting friends, exercising or taking classes in it. Zuckerberg believes almost anything people can do in real life can be done in the metaverse in the close future.

Picture this. Zhang Yixing is putting on a big concert in Beijing and you are too busy to go to the city for it. When the concert begins, instead of watching it online, you put on a VR headset and come to the virtual concert. You sit, listen and shout with other fans. You even shake hands and talk with your idol. How exciting!

The recent growing interest in the metaverse can be seen as a result of COVID-19. As more people have started working from home, there has been an increasing need for ways to make online interaction(互动) more lifelike.

Zuckerberg said it might take around ten years for the metaverse to arrive. Are you looking forward to it?

47. What does the underlined word “science-fiction” mean?

48. At present, we can do all the following things in metaverse EXCEPT _____.

- A. meeting friends                      B. taking exercise
C. taking lessons                      D. enjoying nice food

49. What is the purpose(目的) of Paragraph 3?

- A. To help us understand how to use a VR headset.
B. To give an example of how the Metaverse works.
C. To teach us how to get a ticket for Zhang Yixing’s concert.
D. To show the difference between a real concert and a virtual one.

50. Why is there a growing interest in metaverse recently?

- A. Because virtual concerts are more convenient and interesting.
B. Because more people are working at home and need to interact online.
C. Because VR headsets can help to make many of the activities more exciting.
D. Because Mark Zuckerberg hopes to finish building the whole metaverse in ten years.
