Dolphins are friendly to men. And for thousands of years, there are many stories about dolphins and men. In the 19th century, in the sea near New Zealand, there was a dolphin. People on ships liked him very much and gave him a very good name, Jack. From 1871 to 1903, Jack met many ships and showed them the way. In 1903, a man on a ship with the name of The Penguin hurt Jack. Luckily, the dolphin didn't die, and after a long time he was well again. He showed ways for ships for nine more years, but he didn't help the ship The Penguin again.

Today, some people still kill dolphins, but many countries in the world now protect them. There are laws to stop people from killing them.
