I buy him fish and milk and lots of toy mice(玩具鼠) once a week. I even bought a small house for him, because he sometimes likes to stay at some place only by himself. But what is going wrong? In the dream Eric said angrily, “My life can’t be worse! I don’t like fish. I don’t like milk. And toy mice? Are you crazy? I’m not a cat. And I don’t want to be a cat, either!” Then he ran back to his small house.

Transport should be much better. At present, our spaceships are too slow to carry large numbers of people to Mars—it takes months. However, by 2100, spaceship can travel at half the speed of light(光). It might take us two or three days to get to Mars!

There will probably be no school on Mars. Every student will have a computer at home which is connected to the Internet. They can study, do their homework and take exams in online schools. Each student will also have their own online teacher called “e-teacher”.

However, in some ways, life on Mars may not be better than that on the Earth today. Food will not be the same—meals will probably be in the same form and will not be as delicious as they are today. Also, space travel will make many people feel ill. The spaceship will travel fast but the journey to Mars will probably be very uncomfortable.

In English classes, we spend much time studying grammar and new words. We work hard to improve our reading and listening skills. However, few of us pay enough attention to body language. 51

The answer is a big “Yes!” As the old saying goes, “Actions speak louder than words.” 52 For example, shrug your shoulders(耸肩) and without a word, we've just said, “I don't know.”

Body language can help us stress(强调) what we're saying. It can help us express our true feelings. 53 Often, people who are lying do not make eye contact. They may turn away because they are uncomfortable with the conversation.

Body language is important in our own lives, too. 54 Leaning forward (前倾) into the conversation, for example, means you are interested in what is being said. Folding your arms in front of your body means you don't completely trust the person who you are talking to.

55 They say more than seventy percent of our messages are sent through body language. Sometimes, body language is more useful than the words we use.

- A. It can show if you really care about the talking.

B. So is the body language important?

C. Everyone should learn body languages.

D. Scientists have been studying body language for a long time.

E. Sometimes, we can communicate things even without a single word.

F. What's more, body language can help us find out if someone is lying(说谎).

Hibernation(冬眠) is a way to spend winter for many animals. Some animals will hibernate when there isn't enough food and the temperature drops. Some animals might go into a deep sleep for long time, while others will just slow down but stay active. Now let's see something about chipmunks'(花栗鼠的) hibernation.

During their active daytime, later in summer and early autumn, you will often enjoy watching them as they hide their food between their cheeks and take them to their holes to save for their winter hibernation.

During the hibernation: During the winter hibernation, chipmunks' body temperature will drop. They will sleep heavily and wake sometimes for food. When the spring comes, they will play. During the late summer, they will work hard once again, collecting food to prepare for the next winter. You can click the website below to watch more interesting videos about chipmunks.
