How to sell products online

There are many steps involved in building an online store to start selling online. Don't worry, because our team has written down the process of selling online into a few clear steps for you to follow.

Choose what products to sell

This first step is crucial. It always helps to sell products online; perhaps even a product your create yourself. Give yourself the mindset that no one can sell those items better than you.

Pick the right name

Although in theory, you can do business with any name, you want to pick one that includes the keywords of the products. For example, a name like www. bakersmart. com if you happen to sell baking supplies online. Stay away from names which would also be hard to remember.

Build your online store's website

Creating your online store's website is critical to your success. For this, you have to choose an e-commerce solution that allows you to either build an entire website to sell online or to add a linkage to your existing website if you already have one.

Select your shipping methods

Yet another thing to consider is how you will deliver your products to your customers. And while most online businesses offer free shipping, it's recommended as you start out to use real-time rates calculated directly from your preferred shipping carrier. In this way, you can avoid any risk associated with losing money on orders by not charging the correct shipping rates to your customers.

Promote and market your online store

What good is having an online store if no one goes to it? From large to small online businesses, the key to getting your name "out there" is marketing. Learn more about how to market your online store by checking the full list of e-commerce marketing features.

Grow your business

After your business takes off and start selling online at an increased rate, you will have to process those orders and fulfill them as quickly as possible. This might not leave you enough time to provide your customers with excellent customer service.

- () 21. The first step is to choose what products to sell.
() 22. Pick the right name that includes the keywords of the products.

“But I feel good doing this!”the little boy’s voice rang in my ears when I entered the mall. He stood raising money for cancer research. In the cold wind,he pulled his hat down over his ears. He warmed one hand in his pocket and held a list with the other hand. I noticed him greeting the people passing by without gloves on his hands.

I checked my purse but I didn’t find any change. I was always ready to give money because I wished cancer could be cured(治愈) one day. “I’ll bring you some money when I returned,” I promised the little boy. “Thank you!” he smiled and he seemed almost frozen in the cold air. I suggested he come inside the mall,but he said,“The guard there said no one is allowed to raise money for charities(慈善机构) in the mall. But I feel good doing this here. It’s OK.”

I did my shopping and thought about buying something for him. Finally,I bought a pair of gloves,brown ones. The cashier felt curious when I repeated the boy’s words “But I feel good doing this!”

The boy still stood where he had been. I offered some money to him and filled in the list that he handed to me. Then he told me that his best friend George had leukemia(白血病). He did this in order to help him out of trouble.

With tears full of my eyes,I put the gloves that I bought for him into his hands.

“Will the cancer research give you something to thank you for doing this?”

“Oh yes!”the boy said and his eyes lit up with joy. “It sure does! Now I can stand here much longer than I expected!”

“What do you receive then?”I asked. He answered with a smile,“I get another new,empty list.”

46. What did the boy raise money for?

He raised money for _____.

47. What was the weather like?

范文赏析:

Dear editor,

There are many ways for us high school students to relax our-selves. As for me, when I feel stressed, I usually communicate with my friends, parents or teachers. Sometimes I will do sports with my classmates, such as riding bikes, going swimming and so on. I go to the movies or listen to light music in my spare time, too. What's more, going on a trip on holiday is another way to make me relaxed. I believe, if we are more relaxed, we'll be happier, healthier and learn better.

Yours,

Li Hua
