Dear Mom and Dad,

The time has come: I'm graduating, and I thank you both for all your help during these 15 years. I still remember when you used to say, "You can do whatever you want." I'm so glad you are my parents, especially when I hear kids say they don't get on well with their parents. I'm glad that you support me when I decide to do anything. You always try to help, and that's important to me.

Dad, I remember when you first took me to go fishing. I loved going fishing even though I never caught anything. I also remember when you would get angry with me. I realize you were only trying to show me the right way. When I would cry, you would always be there to try to cheer me up. That's what I call a good, loving, caring Dad.

Sometimes you and Mom don't agree with me, but you are there by my side in anything that I do, and that's why I love you both so much.

Mom, I enjoy going out with you and having our happy time every Friday night, and I hope that never changes. I love telling you everything; the best part about you is that you listen. I'm glad we do a lot together. You love to have fun, and dad does, too. You always give me your advice and I listen.

Thank you for bringing me up.

Love always,
Alice

B

Twelve-year-old Bria Neff loves art and animals, so she combines the two by creating of animals that are endangered. With her mom's help, she sells the paintings or donates (捐赠) them. Bria Neff's goal is to raise money for organizations that protect animals and their habitats (栖息地). We asked Bria about her work.

Q: You've done hundreds of animal paintings so far. How did you get started?

A: When I was eight, I entered an art contest. I found out that there were thousands of endangered species (物种), and I wanted to help. Since I love to draw and paint, I thought I could use my time and talents to showcase (展示) endangered species and their challenges.

Q: How long does a painting take?

A: I complete a painting in one to two weeks. I start by looking up lots of pictures of the animal in its habitat. That gives me inspiration. Then I spend much time learning more about the animal. Finally, I start to paint.

Q: You created a coloring book for the Great Plains Zoo. How did that come out?

A: I just thought that maybe if I created a coloring book, other kids could learn about endangered species, so I set up a meeting with the zoo. And they liked my idea. All the proceeds (收入) go to support the endangered species at the zoo.

Q: What do you say to other kids who'd like to do something meaningful?

A: I want them to know that it doesn't matter how old you are. Do something you love, and you can make a difference. We just need to work together and believe we can do great things.

54. What's Bria Neff's goal?

- A. To raise money for organizations. B. To protect endangered animals.
C. To teach other kids to learn painting. D. To donate money to poor children.

55. Why did Bria Neff set up a meeting with the zoo?

- A. Because she wanted to find a way to raise some money for endangered species.
B. Because she wanted other kids to fall in love with her coloring book.
C. Because she wanted other kids to learn about endangered species.
D. Because she wanted to encourage other kids to take part in the contest.

56. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. We don't know when Bria Neff entered an art contest.
B. Bria Neff can complete a painting in one to two days.
C. Bria Neff never looks up lots of pictures of the animal before she paints.
D. We can know how they deal with the proceeds from the coloring book.

Space vegetables are grown from seeds (种子) that have been taken to space and brought back to the earth. The seeds are affected by the radiation (辐射) and low gravity (重力) in space. When they are brought back to the earth, these seeds produce vegetables that are bigger and healthier than normal vegetables. However, some people worry about eating space vegetables. In fact, people should not be frightened because space vegetables are very healthy.

Here are some facts that you should know about space vegetables.

Space vegetables are grown from seeds that are carefully chosen. When seeds are brought back from space, they are tested to make sure that they will be safe to eat.

Space vegetables are better for you than normal vegetables. For example, space tomatoes stay fresh for twenty days, which is one week longer than normal tomatoes.

After genetically modified (转基因的) food appears in the market, people worry that they are eating unknown things. For example, if nut genes (基因) are put inside potatoes, people who are allergic to nuts might get sick from eating these potatoes because they do not know they are also eating nuts. Unlike genetically modified food, space vegetables have not been genetically changed. So there are no dangers of eating something unknown.

61. The seeds brought back from space produce _____ vegetables according to the passage.

A. more delicious

B. healthier and bigger

C. more dangerous

D. cheaper and healthier

62. Genetically modified food is different from space vegetables because _____.

A. it is grown in space

B. it has nothing unknown

C. it has been genetically changed

D. it has no new genes

63. According to the passage, normal tomatoes can stay fresh for about _____ days.

A. seven

B. thirteen

C. twenty

D. twenty-seven

64. What does the underlined word "allergic" probably mean?

A. 过敏的

B. 在意的

C. 紧张的

D. 喜欢的

65. What is the passage mainly about?

A. Space vegetables are grown in space.

B. People worry about eating space vegetables.

C. Space vegetables are safe to eat.

D. Space vegetables may bring illness to us.

IX. 任务型阅读 (共 5 小题, 每小题 2 分, 计 10 分)

阅读短文, 并按要求完成 66~ 70 题。

Books are an amazing tool for learning languages. Have you ever started to read a book in English, and then stopped because it was too hard? Don't worry! Some books are easier to use than others. Here are my tips for using books to learn English.

Read dual-language books

Dual-language books are the same story written in two languages. They have your native language (母语) on one page and your target language (目标语言) on the other page, so you can quickly check what a word means.

Read children's books

Learning a language is the perfect excuse to go into the exciting world. Children's books use simpler words and are fun to read. Look for books with pictures, as they help you to follow the story.

Read comic books (漫画书)

Sometimes when we are reading in a foreign language, longer stories may seem impossible to finish because it feels like there are too many new words. Comic books have fewer words and lots of pictures on every page so that you won't get lost.

Make notes!

If you want to use a book to learn English, buy a cheap one you can write in.

Don't be afraid to write translations and thoughts in the margins (页边空白), as your notes can help you to remember.

With the advice above, you will be able to read in English soon! Remember that you can use these tips for films and television too. Try watching children's television shows in English or watching a film online with English subtitles (字幕).

66 题完成句子; 67, 68 题简略回答问题; 69 题找出并写下全文主题句; 70 题将文中画线句子译成汉语。
