Research tells us: when we write a goal down, we are more _____ 29 _____ to achieve it.

Also when you write your goals in your own way, you are able to make _____ 30 _____ realize situations that will bring you nearer to your goals.

五、任务型阅读(每小题 2 分, 计 20 分)

If you are wondering where to relax at weekends, then I can s

B) 阅读短文，按要求回答问题。

You are playing outside on a rainy afternoon. The day clears, and the sun breaks through the clouds. If you're lucky, you can watch one of the wonders of nature—a rainbow.

In the West, adults teach young children that there is a pot of gold at the end of a rainbow. Most kids believe it. And they dream of one day finding that pot of gold. It's a nice story. However, rainbows are simply what we see when the sun's rays (光线) pass through drops of water. The light is reflected and bent (反射并弯曲) as it travels through the wet air. As light bends inside the raindrops, it comes out the other side, appearing as all of the colours of light: red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet. The top band of light will always be red, and the bottom band will always be violet.

There is no way to predict (预测) exactly when a rainbow will appear. However, if you see a rainbow, one thing is certain: the sun is shining in one part of the sky and it is raining in another part of it. Here's something else that's always true about rainbows: they will always be in front of you, and the sun will always be behind you.

One last thing. If there really was a pot of gold at the end of a rainbow, you would never be able to get there and find it. As you move towards a rainbow, it moves away from you at the same speed.

61. When does a rainbow usually appear in the sky?

62. How many colours are there in the rainbow?

63. Why do the children in the west dream of that?

64. In a rainbow, where is the colour red?

65. What can we know about the sun if we see a rainbow?
