My grandfather is 92 years old and he lives alone. I called him to make sure he was OK after the bad weather. I asked about his recent life. He said he had something to tell me.

A few days ago, my grandfather waited in line at a bank. A young girl behind him said, "I will hold your place in line while we're waiting. There is a chair over there. Go and have a rest for a while." Because my grandfather moved slowly and it was difficult for him to stand for long, my grandfather thanked her and went to the chair. When it was my grandfather's turn, the young girl asked him to come to his place.

My grandfather told me that he was moved by the care from this young girl. He asked her why she did that. She thought about it for a moment and said, "We should help people in need, then the world will be full of love and warmth."
