On November 11, there is a holiday created by Chinese people for singles (单身人士). It is known as Singles' Day. But now it has become the biggest online shopping day in the world. Tmall, Taobao and many other online shopping sites offer huge sales on this day to attract shoppers. This year's sales reached 253.97 billion yuan.

There are similar shopping days in the United States as well. The most well-known of these is Black Friday. It always falls on the day after the Thanksgiving holiday. On this day, stores will offer special deals, just like on Singles' Day in China.

On Black Friday, shoppers will often wake up very early to wait in line at stores before they open. They might start to wait in line as early as 2 or 3 am. Sometimes the crowds will be so big that it is impossible to get inside the store.

Another similar holiday is Cyber (网络的) Monday. This day always falls on the Monday after Thanksgiving. It is like Singles' Day, since it is only for online shopping.

Personally, I don't like any of these holidays. They place too much importance on buying things. I prefer to celebrate Buy Nothing Day. It is a "holiday" that falls on the same day as Black Friday. It is an international day of protest (抗议) to draw attention to the problem of over-consumption (消费过度). What do you think about these holidays?

49. _____ shopping holidays are mentioned in the article.

A. Three

B. Four

C. Five

D. Six

50. On Black Friday, people usually _____.

A. get up early and wait in front of stores

B. stay at home to avoid bad luck

C. stay up overnight to shop online

D. get together to celebrate the holiday

51. What is the author's attitude(态度) toward these shopping holidays?

A. He doesn't say anything about these holidays.

B. He prefers to celebrate these holidays on other days.

C. He likes these holidays and celebrates them every year.

D. He thinks they can cause the problem of over-consumption.

52. What is the article mainly about?

A. To introduce Singles' Day in China.

B. To talk about holiday celebration ways.

C. To call on people to save money.

D. To introduce some famous shopping festivals.

C

You may have seen many pumpkins in posters and TV shows recently, since Halloween came on Oct 31.

Lanterns (灯笼) made of pumpkins are often seen during Halloween. Many people in the US like to make them and put them in front of their houses. People hollow out (挖空) a pumpkin, carve (雕刻) a face on one side, and place a candle inside to make the pumpkin glow. The lanterns can look funny or scary.

This is not the only way in which pumpkins are part of American culture.

During the Thanksgiving holiday, pumpkin pie is a common food. It is made from pumpkins and has some delicious spices to give it a nice flavor (味道). People often put some whipped (搅打过的) cream on top of it before serving it. It is one of my favorite things to eat during Thanksgiving.

There is also "pumpkin chucking (丢)". It's a competition where people build machines to throw pumpkins through the air. The person whose pumpkin flies the farthest wins the competition. The world record for pumpkin chucking was set in Utah in 2010. The distance for that world record was about 1.69 kilometers!

Finally, there are also pumpkin growing contests. For these contests, farmers try to grow the biggest pumpkins they can. The person who has the biggest pumpkin will win first prize.

53. The underlined word "them" in Paragraph 2 refers to _____.

A. pumpkins

B. candles

C. pumpkin pies

D. lanterns made of pumpkins

54. Which is the correct order of steps for making a pumpkin lanterns?

If you want to travel from Xi'an to Chengdu by train, it will take about 16 hours. But starting this month, the new Xi'an-Chengdu high-speed railway will shorten this travel time to three hours.

The 643-kilometer line is China's first high-speed railway to run through the Qinling Mountains, which form a natural boundary (分界线) between China's north and south. With a speed of 250 km per hour, it's also the first mountain-heavy train line to provide a 4G network.

Along the way, the train passes through two areas for rare (稀有) wild animals--one for pandas and the other for crested ibises (朱鹮).

To reduce the railway's influence on the animals, workers and experts have designed and built the railway to be environmentally friendly, China Daily reported.

As of September, there were 345 wild pandas living in the Qinling Mountains. China currently has 1,864 wild pandas in total, according to the Xinhua News Agency.

In order not to disturb (打扰) the pandas, the railway was designed to run through tunnels (隧道) within the area. Protective shields (防护屏) are placed near the entrance of each tunnel to stop animals from going in.

To protect the thousands of crested ibises that fly near one part of the railway, protective nets have been set up along the tracks to make sure the birds will not fly into a train. The nets are about 32 km long and 4 meters high. Experts tested different shapes and materials for building the nets before making their final choice.

57. It will take _____ to travel from Xi'an to Chengdu on the high-speed train.
A. 16 hours B. 13 hours C. 3 hours D. 1 hour
58. Why did people build the railway to be environmentally friendly?

C. To avoid harming wild animals. D. To help the train run through tunnels quietly
59. Experts are using _____ to stop birds from flying into the train.
A. tunnels B. protective shields C. tracks D. protective nets
60. Which of the following is TRUE of the new Xi'an-Chengdu railway?
A. It is China's first high-speed railway to run through China.
B. Rare wild animals will be disturbed because of the new Xi'an-Chengdu railway.
C. There were about half of the wild pandas in China living near the railway area.
D. It's the first mountain-heavy train line with a 4G network.

VI. 任务型阅读。(67、68、69每小题2分, 70题 3分, 共9分)

阅读下文并回答问题。

It is important to have good learning habits if you want to study, and this is especially true when it comes to online learning.

Online learning is different from what you will find in a traditional school. The learning environment and methods are different.

When studying in a classroom, there is a lot of communication (交流) between the students and the teacher, but little interaction (互动) among the students, while online learning helps one student and another to interact very seriously and closely. So one of an online teacher's roles is to encourage students to interact. Another is to guide discussion but not to take total control of students' thoughts in a classroom.

So what are the good learning habits you should have in online learning? Here are some good suggestions. First, it is a good idea to get everything ready for online learning. You can write down daily tasks and even weekly tasks that you want to complete. By doing so, you will have a good plan for finishing your goals. Second, you should spend as much time online as possible for regular lessons. Also, always try to set aside a regular time to communicate with other students.

67. Is online learning different from what you will find in a traditional school?

68. How many good suggestions about good online learning habits are there in the passage?

---

69. What are the roles of online teachers?

---

70. Do you like the idea of online learning? Why or why not?
